11/07/2018 10:02:04	11/07/2018 10:03:14	Agree	Makes perfect sense for emergency services to fall under the governance of a PFCC.
11/07/2018 10:03:25	11/07/2018 10:04:53	Agree	Makes good sense, emergency services should work together, surely this will save money and benefit us all

11/07/2018 10:38:46	11/07/2018 10:40:05	Agree	Great idea to do joint work with emergency services.
11/07/2018 10:40:42	11/07/2018 10:41:08	Agree	-
11/07/2018 10:41:20	11/07/2018 10:42:21	Agree	I think there are definitely wins for Norfolk if this is done properly.
11/07/2018 10:42:58	11/07/2018 10:43:28	Agree	-
11/07/2018 10:44:30	11/07/2018 10:45:07	Agree	-
11/07/2018 10:47:51	11/07/2018 10:48:45	Agree	Makes operational and financial sense!
11/07/2018 10:59:32	11/07/2018 11:00:03	Agree	-
11/07/2018 11:04:20	11/07/2018 11:05:05	Agree	-
11/07/2018 11:05:00	11/07/2018 11:08:21	Disagree	Whilst there is clearly overlap between fire and police, there is as much, if not more, overlap between fire and the county council. This feels like change for change's sake. I am not convinced the suggested benefits will be realised either, certainly not if the fire HQ relocation to OCC is anything to go by.
11/07/2018 11:09:54	11/07/2018 11:10:21	Agree	-

11/07/2018 11:33:13	11/07/2018 11:33:48	Agree	-
11/07/2018 11:23:06	11/07/2018 11:46:08	Disagree	The police are an enforcement agency and are viewed with distrust by the public. The Fire Service are welcomed by all communities, if they become part of an enforcement agency this will be detrimental to the trust we enjoy with the public.
11/07/2018 11:46:02	11/07/2018 11:46:40	Disagree	-
11/07/2018 11:45:56	11/07/2018 11:47:34	Agree	This is long overdue, makes perfect sense for Fire to be more aligned with another blue light service.

11/07/2018 12:21:17	11/07/2018 12:23:07	Agree	I think the benefits definitely outweigh any costs and it's a good idea. I like the proposal made.
11/07/2018 12:23:00	11/07/2018 12:24:13	Agree	As long as governance can be provided effectively and money saved this is a sensible move.
11/07/2018 12:26:05	11/07/2018 12:27:29	Agree	-

11/07/2018 13:10:41	11/07/2018 13:11:56	Disagree	It removes democratic accountability through my local councillor and I fear that front line services will be cut as occurred for PCSO's
11/07/2018 13:12:24	11/07/2018 13:13:03	Agree	-
11/07/2018 13:13:16	11/07/2018 13:16:39	Agree	-
11/07/2018 13:19:05	11/07/2018 13:21:22	Disagree	Too much power invested in one already over powerful person.
11/07/2018 13:21:16	11/07/2018 13:22:04	Disagree	too wide a remit
11/07/2018 13:24:40	11/07/2018 13:25:31	Disagree	-

11/07/2018 13:37:48	11/07/2018 13:38:46	Disagree	He can't run the police properly why ruin other services.
11/07/2018 13:38:06	11/07/2018 13:38:53	Disagree	-
11/07/2018 13:38:20	11/07/2018 13:39:27	Agree	-

11/07/2018 13:46:27	11/07/2018 13:52:53	Disagree	As with police, it is wrong that such an important organisation is overseen by one person. Both police and fire services should be overseen by a committee who can vote on major changes to that service
11/07/2018 13:56:43	11/07/2018 13:57:23	Agree	-
11/07/2018 13:59:41	11/07/2018 14:00:06	Agree	-
11/07/2018 13:57:22	11/07/2018 14:00:09	Agree	Very sensible - I don't think Fire and Rescue is a service suited to direct Council management - not many other counties run it that way?
11/07/2018 14:00:59	11/07/2018 14:01:19	Agree	-
11/07/2018 14:01:44	11/07/2018 14:02:04	Agree	-
11/07/2018 14:03:45	11/07/2018 14:05:14	Agree	The County have done nothing but cut services everywhere! As long as stations don't close I think it is a good idea!
11/07/2018 14:14:29	11/07/2018 14:15:10	Agree	-
11/07/2018 14:21:41	11/07/2018 14:24:16	Disagree	I fear savings will be made by reducing services. Closing village fire stations as it has already been done to the police service.
11/07/2018 14:21:47	11/07/2018 14:24:26	Disagree	Bearing in mind that we seem to have precious few police to respond to 'minor' incidents and anti social behaviour I would much prefer that the Commissioner devoted his time and finances to improving this sorry state of affairs. A reduction in fire fighters is not a thought to be tolerated!

11/07/2018 14:27:33	11/07/2018 14:29:24	Agree	Why hasn't this been done sooner!! Absolutely agree and well done Mr Green for not shying away from making tough decisions!
11/07/2018 14:36:47	11/07/2018 14:37:52	Disagree	I don't have the same faith in the police service that I have in the fire and rescue service
11/07/2018 14:37:49	11/07/2018 14:40:09	Disagree	The fire service as it is currently run, appears to have less governance issues than the police force, therefore leave it as is.

			I would say that if my home was burning down, I would like to see fireman available to put it out. Under this PCC policemen did nothing to prevent travellers trashing a seaside town last summer. Where is the evidence of managerial skills for running 2 organisations?
11/07/2018 14:29:41	11/07/2018 14:47:21	Disagree	We were sold a pup.
11/07/2018 14:51:49	11/07/2018 14:52:27	Disagree	-
11/07/2018 14:52:38	11/07/2018 14:53:08	Disagree	-
11/07/2018 14:52:30	11/07/2018 14:53:11	Disagree	This is solely an empire building attempt.
11/07/2018 15:00:04	11/07/2018 15:01:25	Disagree	It's not broken, so why try to "fix it".
11/07/2018 15:03:43	11/07/2018 15:05:30	Agree	the current arrangement is satisfactory
11/07/2018 15:05:08	11/07/2018 15:07:50	Disagree	-
11/07/2018 15:13:15	11/07/2018 15:15:02	Disagree	It will cost more to transfer than it will save, and the fire service will get gouged for cash like the police service. It's reorganisation for the sake of it and a power grab, nothing more.
11/07/2018 15:17:40	11/07/2018 15:18:40	Disagree	Seems like a massive waste of time and money. Leave it alone
11/07/2018 15:20:00	11/07/2018 15:20:51	Agree	-
11/07/2018 15:21:39	11/07/2018 15:22:16	Agree	-

11/07/2018 15:36:07	11/07/2018 15:36:47	Disagree	-
11/07/2018 13:55:17	11/07/2018 15:41:19	Disagree	If the consultation was completed with the level of complexity that this survey demonstrates, then I have no faith in the business case presented by the PCC. Upon reading through the business case I note that there are a number of unevidenced assertions and presumptions. I note in the foreword by Lorne Green that he "believes" this is the right approach, yet then goes on to talk of evidence-based decisions. Belief and evidence-based are not one and the same, it concerns me that Mr Green conflates the two.

11/07/2018 15:03:30	11/07/2018 15:53:36	Disagree	there is no compelling case for the transfer of responsibilities and the key priorities that have been set out by the PCC do not appear to have any synergies with the Fire and Rescue service
11/07/2018 15:52:12	11/07/2018 15:55:17	Disagree	What experience does he have to involve himself in NFRS,I would have thought running a depleted police force with no pcso 's,police stations shutting all over the county would be enough for him to handle....Hands Off our fire service!!!!
11/07/2018 15:54:44	11/07/2018 15:55:27	Disagree	-
11/07/2018 15:54:10	11/07/2018 15:58:43	Agree	As fire don't currently get all their precept, I feel it would be better for them to be more in control of their finances. It also be empowering for them to have a significant voice of control rather than having to report to a non blue light service. As long as the fire service are treated fairly and equally with the police and that the police don't feel themselves to be more senior
11/07/2018 15:57:20	11/07/2018 15:58:45	Agree	Any restructure that enable costs savings and a more efficient response can only be a good thing.

11/07/2018 16:31:43	11/07/2018 16:34:26	Disagree	I don't believe in the concept of police commissioner, so would not support extending the commissioner's influence any further. The case for change has not been made and the 'savings' figures are untried and untested.
11/07/2018 16:38:41	11/07/2018 16:39:16	Agree	-

			I've read the business case and it reads like something written to get the preferred result for the person paying for the business case. It glossed over potential problems hugely e.g. when northants cc lost their FRS they ended up bankrupt. Nothing mentioned about exactly how contracts jointly held with NCC will transfer, just that they will, even when they are NCC contracts. Everything is written as if it's very rosy, and I don't believe any of it will save any money in the long run.

11/07/2018 23:24:12	11/07/2018 23:25:58	Disagree	I dont think lorne is fit to run for a bus, let alone both the police and fire service. Abolishing pcso's is short sighted and means that yet more pressure is put on officers to do work below their paygrade and responsibilities.
12/07/2018 01:40:26	12/07/2018 01:40:51	Agree	-
12/07/2018 06:35:49	12/07/2018 06:41:57	Disagree	Lorne couldn't run a bath He is a career politician all noise and no substance. He has bragged of spending large sums on cameras for police. Well there is no police to put them on. The guy is a complete tool. Leave our fire service and whilst he's at it leave the PCC.
12/07/2018 07:58:37	12/07/2018 07:59:05	Agree	-
12/07/2018 08:12:33	12/07/2018 08:15:14	Disagree	PCCs are less democratic and therefore accountable than a full council. A full county council, supported by a large and experienced non-political staff, has a wealth of experience and competence to draw upon. The PCC does not.
12/07/2018 08:16:16	12/07/2018 08:17:00	Agree	Yes this adds options for better economies of scale and better working.
12/07/2018 08:16:26	12/07/2018 08:21:50	Disagree	this PCC made cuts to the police service by getting rid of PCSOs. Less police on the streets has led to an increase in crime in Norwich. Lorne Green was not elected to take charge of the fire service. He should concentrate on reducing crime.

12/07/2018 09:24:55	12/07/2018 09:27:10	Agree	Yes I agree, I'm on a station where we told in the 2010 IRMP we would be getting a small 4x4 fire appliance as your reports suggest. 8 years later our manager still doesn't know what we are getting or when. It takes took slow to do anything in the council

			Too much power in the hands of an individual. If that individual fails in any way there is no immediate check until their office comes up for re-election. Experience so far of Norfolk's PCCs gives me little confidence that real improvements will derive from the change. Certainly, there has been no obvious improvement to the Police under PCCs. This is not unique to Norfolk, either. Secondly, policing is primarily about enforcement which is very different to rescue: alienation and poor public image is a significant issue for the police, but the fire service enjoys admiration and respect. From this arise two things: first, the fire service has much to lose by any perception of closer links; second, as PCCs throughout the UK have failed significantly to improve the image and performance of the police it seems inconceivable that governance of another service will benefit the community.

			I cannot support this as the rationale and financial projections do not appear solid. Looking a fleet as one saving, this is not achievable given the disparity in roles and vehicles. The PCC says savings can be made, but is this just delaying the inevitable and demonstrating that the police are not wanting to work together now. I do not understand why the One Public Estate initiative is not feeding into this as much as it could. Surely this should be the main factor and with the savings it could present offer VFM without the need for change. My experience of police asset management is one where facilities are under utilised and such as N Walsham PS has a large percentage of space unfilled - lack of foresight! Going on the basis that the police force is less effective - backed up by crime figures and RTAs - the ability for a LA to take over the police should be tabled. The efficiencies there would be immense, and coupled with a unitary Norfolk would put Norfolk in the best financial position. The PCC could be subsumed into NCC and therefore have a more democratic control in place... The NFRS is one of the most effective yet cheapest services in the UK - it needs to stay that way - so hands of the money. Use your own savings to plus your own funding gaps - there is plenty of waste in the police, just look and you will easily find it.

12/07/2018 14:42:11	12/07/2018 14:46:08	Disagree	THE PCC is not the right governance for a service that is not directly related to police or crime. There is a swathe of evidence in terms of cost, quality and performance that demonstrates that the fire service operates exceptionally well under the current governance. A case to change to governance smacks of empire building and creating a new industry to support the existence of the PCC

12/07/2018 16:29:53	12/07/2018 16:32:31	Disagree	I may be wrong because we have an excellent police service but I feel fire protection should remain with NCC
12/07/2018 16:31:48	12/07/2018 16:32:51	Disagree	Although they are both emergency services, they are very different & should be kept so.
12/07/2018 16:33:50	12/07/2018 16:35:29	Disagree	It is well run at the moment with democratic oversight of many County councillors. One PCC does not make it the same!
12/07/2018 16:34:32	12/07/2018 16:36:55	Disagree	They are two separate services with different priorities. Especially in the case of the fire service I believe they need someone with experience of the service to over see it. The emergency services cost what they cost and this needs to be understood.
12/07/2018 16:36:21	12/07/2018 16:37:56	Disagree	I have still to see any positive effect in having a PCC
12/07/2018 16:33:01	12/07/2018 16:38:10	Disagree	the only way to keep us all safe is to keep these two separate. The PCC has already made our streets less safe by getting rid of PCSOs, and in any case I do not think that he has any experience of being a policeman which is essential to any competent understanding of the job. Is he or has he ever been a firefighter? I think not. He is a bureaucrat who loves a bit of power any should never, under any circumstances, be given any more, or we risk incremental damage to our safety.
12/07/2018 16:34:11	12/07/2018 16:39:13	Disagree	Very strongly disagree as your track record as PCCC for Norfolk is lamentable and we cannot have this important service cocked up as well.

12/07/2018 16:36:14	12/07/2018 16:41:42	Agree	Especially if it cuts costs whilst improving services, but I would like to see both services personnel paid appropriately.
12/07/2018 16:41:40	12/07/2018 16:42:11	Agree	Very sensible use of resources.
12/07/2018 16:34:43	12/07/2018 16:42:26	Disagree	Whilst there is nothing to stop all the services working together I believe they should have their own chief and I do not think that the changes that have been made to the police have been for the good.

12/07/2018 16:42:54	12/07/2018 16:47:03	Disagree	From what I've heard on TV and radio there seems to be disagreement from the fire service itself.

12/07/2018 16:45:55	12/07/2018 16:50:09	Disagree	Putting one person in charge of police, fire and crime will not improve communication between the services whilst they retain their separate identities. It would be far better to investigate and implement better ways of communication between the services to improve how they work together.

12/07/2018 16:51:16	12/07/2018 16:53:55	Agree	I believe that this is the correct way forwards. There are already F&R personnel based at OCC and there is excellent liaison between the two DTU. It could only benefit the people of Norfolk.
12/07/2018 16:52:03	12/07/2018 16:55:45	Agree	I don't know why it hasn't been done before. I am no fan of the yanks but they have the right idea where the ambulance service shares staff and accomodation with the fire dept. YOU NEED TO GET THIS DONE!

12/07/2018 17:06:38	12/07/2018 17:08:18	Agree	It makes a lot of sence for this to happen.In practice it will not change the way front line staff work but it would be better managed.

12/07/2018 17:19:10	12/07/2018 17:23:38	Disagree	And then the Ambulance service? The Fire Service do a good job as do the police but there not be under the same regime.
12/07/2018 17:19:14	12/07/2018 17:24:34	Disagree	Each service has their own core skills, hence you need a leader who understands those skills and take them forwards. Not have a leader who thinks he can lead all services. I am not against sharing skills and having cross service interactive.
12/07/2018 17:23:27	12/07/2018 17:28:32	Agree	PCC Lorne Green's proposal may not be the total answer to boosting the Police and the Fire Brigade but even the 10 million pounds over 10 years is something. Also, the ability to make decisions quicker that also will be a great advantage to both groups. Letting the Police and Fire Brigade stand aside but not mixed together means that both their backgrounds and their futures will belong to each of them. There will be comments about this proposal but I do think that this is the way forward for all side.

Crime figures are a lot higher than those reported and Recent failings in the Police service in logging an incident in respect of damage to my daughters car left her with a £500 bill and NC with better stats. As I say too much to do in the Police before empire building.
12/07/2018 17:42:45	12/07/2018 17:49:19	Agree	Whilst I always feel that "small is beautiful", in this case I can see that to have Police, Fire and Rescue under one leadership could be a great advantage in terms of efficiency and cash saving. Provided, as you say that the ancient principals under which each discipline has always worked, will not be changed. Go for it!
12/07/2018 17:49:41	12/07/2018 17:51:39	Disagree	The fire and rescue service seems to be a lot better managed than local police, I would be in favour of the police service coming under the same management as the fire service.

12/07/2018 18:56:16	12/07/2018 18:58:44	Disagree	Far too much power in one person's hands. It's not impossible for two separate departments to work together: it's called 'collaboration'.

12/07/2018 19:39:26	12/07/2018 19:50:04	Disagree	I don't see how this is going to work. As policing budgets, and Fire & Rescue budgets, are being cut anyway. How is it that finances suddenly become available if the PPC becomes overall governance. Why can't funds become available in its present form. I am visually impaired, and already concerned about the lack of policing available, and Fire & Rescue services. What happens if a major incident occurred in Norfolk are we ready for it.

			In principle I agree with the idea of minimising "back office" jobs and sharing facilities (like call centres), especially for the emergency services and also local authorities. However, I have doubts about the current PCC who seems more devoted to his personal P/R image (he is never out of the papers or off TV) than in achieving the results which he is appointed to do. Under his watch just about all of the vital statistics which should be going down are going up and all those which should be going up are coming down. And now he is looking for yet more responsibility.

			The Police and Fire Services are two very different and distinct services.The suggestion of putting Police Officers in Fire Appliances is laughable - where will these officers come from? If it is from the shifts, which are already stretched how will Police officers deal with crime and ASB?

13/07/2018 11:35:40	13/07/2018 11:43:37	Disagree	I disagree because, all too often, these kind of proposals result in extra costs. The way things work now have worked in the past quite satisfactorily and I see no great need to change. It seems to me that the PCC is empire building. If there were some obvious cost saving I could agree with the proposal. If there were some significant efficiency saving (= cost saving) I could agree with the proposal. But I suspect that the end result would be an increase in administration and so an increase in costs.

13/07/2018 13:33:16	13/07/2018 13:35:39	Disagree	I do not believe that simply merging the structures of two blue light services will, over time, produce benefits. It may reduce costs but this isn't the only consideration. The Fire Service performs well as it is and has national recognition for being one of the most efficiently run services. At the same time, there is a need to increase police presence in the county, so I am not sure how the two are comparable.

13/07/2018 14:24:16	13/07/2018 14:30:00	Disagree	To have so much power and influence given to one person is far too risky a strategy. Norfolk has now had two Commissioners in charge of the Police, neither of whom can justly claim to have been successful in maintaining the status quo, much less improving the service. To have given them the same role with the fire service too would have made a grim emergency service even worse for the county.

			I see no evidence that the fire service does not work well as is under the council. The police do not have a good relationship with the public and the nature of their role is an enforcer. The firemen do have a good relationship with the public and seen to protect. Mixing the two will result in the public viewing the fire service as part of the police and this could well result in more fire related deaths. The transfer will waste more money on top of commissioning this study, that could have gone to front line services. I do not possibly see how a saving of one million a year could be achieved. This proposal looks to me as more political than for the benefit of the people. I do not have any faith in the ability of the PCC and do not think it fair to continue to increase council tax.

			The alterations to the police force has not improved crime reduction and I do not believe that the proposals to the fire service will be any better. I see this as little short of being nothing more than a political power grab.

			The changes to the police did not reduce the crime rate and we longer have any local policing so why should this improve the fire service. Saving money does mean a better service. It is in my opinion nothing more than a political power grab and the service should remain with NCC.

			The two emergency services whilst both working & serving the public good have differing sets of objectives & priorities.
			They should not be combined under the PCC office, even though efficiencies can always be found, they always seem to be at the detriment of either the service concerned or public safety. Leave them alone, they have served us well in the past and will do so again, it don't need political interference and also someone trying to make a name for themselves. Surely looking after one service should be enough for anyone, and look how that is going. No, leave them separate.

			I'm currently a serving member of NFRS and believe the move to be a positive one. The current Service is top heavy with Senior officers who are not accountable and are inefficient in role.
			I believe the opposition to this move is lead from the top of the Service with the grass roots of the Service wanting change along with modernisation to what is currently a backward thinking Service.
15/07/2018 09:21:34	15/07/2018 09:24:07	Agree
			You are going to incur a lot of expense in setting up a new oversight panel to supervise the chief fire officer and his decisions. The only way financial gain can be made is by closing and/or selling off fire stations and leasing them back. This will ultimately involve more financial expense greater than the shorter gain of £10million. We already have one of the most efficient and cost effective services, so any short term gain will increase the risk to the general public.

15/07/2018 17:00:12	15/07/2018 17:05:29	Disagree	It would dilute the quality of oversight with more responsibilities for one person. If the PCC has spare time, and wants more work, maybe he's not thought through the duties of his present job well enough?

15/07/2018 19:47:39	15/07/2018 20:22:12	Disagree	The governance of the fire service should be accountable, but Apolitical, the politisation of the PCC role has left it open to party influences that can in turn be damaging and often result in a party representative being elected because of the party they represent rather than their merits as a person or their suitability for the role.
15/07/2018 21:01:39	15/07/2018 21:02:16	Disagree	This aside, governing a fire service is a vastly different role to that of a police force and although there should be collaboration, this should be through negotiations.

16/07/2018 07:12:22	16/07/2018 07:16:50	Disagree	The Police and Fire Service work in very different ways and necessarily so as they have different priorities. Looking after two Constabularies is a big enough job as it is. It is impossible for one person to have sufficient expertise to oversee, two Police a Forces and the Fire Service. There is the added complication that Police Officers are servants of the state rather than employees like Fire a Fighters which means they need to be managed differently

			My experiences of the Fire Service in Norfolk is that they are exceptionally well run and provide an excellent service. I see no reason for change.
			I have never liked the concept of "Commissioners" as this places too much power with one individual and adds another tier of bureacracy to our already overcomplicated democracy. Since the introduction of the PCC I have seen very little evidence of any change for the better.
			I have also seen no evidence that £20million will be saved over a number of years.
17/07/2018 11:10:19	17/07/2018 11:17:57	Disagree	I therefore disagree wholeheartedly with the idea of handing more power to the PCC and believe the Fire Service should remain as it is.

17/07/2018 18:26:37	17/07/2018 18:37:24	Agree	Norfolk FRS over the last two IRMP (since 2010) have stated they will start purchasing and deploying smaller and more efficient Fire appliances to save costs however they have consistently failed to do so. They have failed to actively push new build houses being built by the local district councils / housing association to all be fitted with sprinkler systems which costs very little but save lives

Yes, they do a great job, but what about a better job, an more focused job. The PCC run with assistance of the Constabulary can finally bring in better efficiency savings but dual siteing locations and working better (NFRS already in the Police HQ). Look further and see how many calls a NFRS member of staff takes vs Police staff, the police staff member will take the entire count of all calls in one shift vs NFRS in one day. Yes please make this happen, let's be more open

			All emergency services already have a strong track record of working well together. NFRS have joint fire stations with police, NFRS assist the ambulance service and they already have a shared HQ with police.
			Fire Prevention is a core Fire Service function and this relies on the Fire Service working together with a community. Fire and rescue services and health and social care organisations are at the heart of their communities, trust is needed to open the doors to people's homes to educate and change people's attitude to help them stay safe in their home and their neighbourhood. I believe the trust in the community will be lost if the governance of NFRS falls under the PCC and will make their job more difficult.
17/07/2018 22:15:15	17/07/2018 23:01:58	Disagree	If the two services are not to be merged (Executive Summary - 'I also want to be 100% clear that I'm a not interested in merger') how will a Firefighters role in Crime Prevention be conducted? Section 4.8. The Fire Service is not a police or crime enforcement agency. They enjoy a humanitarian role and are accepted by all members of the community, unlike the Police in their enforcement role.

Started	Ended	Q1. The proposal Comments
			While I do not disagree with the principle of the PCC taking responsibility, the proposal is unacceptable because it is fundamentally flawed and naive due to a range of assumptions made without proper examination including: Small response vehicles: NFRS currently struggles to provide adequate resources for large fires or spate conditions as demonstrated this summer and providing an un defined small response vehicle is only going to increase risk and reduce the capability of available resources. This also does not take into account that some of te fire stations that will be downgraded actually provided some of the best fire cover e.g. Sheringham and Gorleston How can you bolster the front line with officers who are not fit for duty and NFRS already use retired and older firefighters in retained firefighter roles so there is no benefit. The number of fire engines will also decrease with the removal of stations including west Walton and Hethersett which will again detrimentally affect the resilience of the service. Co Location is currently happening and is only restricted by the lack of will on the part of the Police to move it on and therefore does not need joint governance. There is no evidence that lightweight vehicles will respond significantly quicker and that the assumption that these will be in areas where response times are hard to meet is fundamentally wrong, see Sheringham and Gorleston. Joint Control rooms does not provide any additional saving beyond what is already identified and the current best practice collaboration with Hertfordshire and Humberside would not be possible if you have joint fire/police control operators and the time taken to answer fire calls would lengthen as the Police take longer to answer 999 calls.
18/07/2018 09:53:30	18/07/2018 09:54:24	Disagree	Payrole and pensions is already with the County Council so moving it to the Police will provide no saving.

18/07/2018 12:29:14	18/07/2018 12:33:17	Disagree	I don't think would be appropriate for a single elected individual to have responsibility for governance of the Fire and Rescue Service.

18/07/2018 13:30:32	18/07/2018 13:32:55	Disagree	I would feel far safer and better protected by the Fire and Resure Service staying under the control of Norfolk County Council as at present.
18/07/2018 13:17:34	18/07/2018 13:36:37	Disagree	I believe that this would be detrimental to the Fire Service. The Police are an enforcement service and the Fire Service is a Humanitarian service, with this in mind it could potentially put the Fire Service in a negative light. The Fire Service at present have a fantastic rapport with the local community and Norfolk County Council is about the Norfolk Community. It makes sense to keep the Fire Service with the Council. It will also be costly to move the service for a pointless reason, costing the tax payer even more. No move of this size would proceed with little upheaval.
18/07/2018 13:33:36	18/07/2018 13:37:45	Disagree	You haven't delivered on you promises for the police, so why interfere with the fire service when it's been well documented that they are good value for money, and the way you have gone relentlessly at this by having these studies and reports done it appears more for control rather than benefit for the community
18/07/2018 13:45:36	18/07/2018 13:47:40	Disagree	No real proof this would work better for the tax payer
18/07/2018 13:48:02	18/07/2018 13:52:09	Disagree	I disagree with this proposal as this should remain an independent service. Sadly, if it becomes merged with the police, the budget will suffer, and the service will suffer. Why change something with currently works very well? This service has been run fairly by the County Council, who understand the need to keep the service maintained. I fear that if merged, we would get a MUCH poorer service and the management would not be as good.

18/07/2018 14:57:08	18/07/2018 15:00:21	Disagree	I don't want the current PCC to have overall control of fire and rescue services as I don't believe he is up to the task nor has the experience to make decisions on a service he know little about. It seems to me this is a massive power/ego trip and should not be considered.

18/07/2018 17:07:54	18/07/2018 17:16:44	Disagree	I strongly disagree with this proposal. PCC is a full time job. We do have an element of democracy in electing the PCC. Widening the job would mean that effective control would be in the hands of his appointed (un-elected) nominees. What would happen when a new PFCC is elected? Violent crime and ASB are on the increase so the current incumbent is not doing his job with the police. We don't want to put more lives at risk by giving him control of the fire service.

Whilst the PCC is elected their is an in built Tory bias in Norfolk and opposed to the multi party elections of County Councillors

			I fear that in the current economic climate this will only encourage further cuts to the emergency services, using the joint governance as an opportunity to cover shortfalls and to justify patching holes in the budgets of one department with another. Police in Norfolk have been reduced and are stretched as it is, and I feel it is a disservice to the public to give the current PCC an opportunity to turn his hand to the Fire and Rescue Service and perform the same cuts and reduction of service. Much of the wording in the PCCs proposal is extremely vague and does not appear to know whether this venture will save any money at all, let alone have hard figures beyond "this could" and "this may lead to." I do not believe this merger is justified or beneficial to anyone but the current PCC who is looking to promote himself and increase his salary at the cost of the service provided to the public.

			Firefighters provide a humanitarian service, they are not agents of the state nor are they law enforcers. Firefighters play a neutral role in our communities. PCCs are unlikely to have any experience in management of the fire and rescue service. The document already states that collaboration like joint stations and control rooms are happening. If the pcc was to take control of the fire service then i fear that the fire service would loose its independence and be forced to undertake more police work like crime prevention and traffic duties. A multi skilled work force is not necessarily a better work force.

19/07/2018 07:27:53	19/07/2018 07:31:29	Disagree	The police and fire services exist for very different purposes and while there are similarities, the pcc should be fully focused on providing the county with an effective police service. There are similarities between the police and the ambulance service, and between the police and the army, but you wouldn't combine oversight of these different services as they are very different specialisms.

19/07/2018 07:54:44	19/07/2018 08:01:51	Disagree	The service already has a huge amount of collaboration with all emergency services and is always open to more. There is no reason why they cannot remain independently governed, unless the aim is to force impractical and ill-conceived joint working through. Forcing work practices with limited knowledge (only opinion), is dangerous for the public, leads to confusion on role and destroys moral in effected services.

19/07/2018 08:31:26	19/07/2018 08:32:51	Disagree	There is absolutely no need. Norfolk Fire Service is one of the most efficiently run in the country. Quite simply, this is a "don't fix what ain't broke" situation and I see this as a power grab for the PCC which would ruin our excellent fire service.
19/07/2018 08:31:55	19/07/2018 08:34:44	Disagree	It would waste more money on what is a top heavy department (The office of the PCC). Save £1m instead and sack the PCC

19/07/2018 09:54:11	19/07/2018 10:05:12	Disagree	To me it is just another cost cutting exercise with detrimental effect. It is political move not operationally desired or beneficial. Police service is hugely different, it is an enforcement agency. The Fire service is a humanitarian service with mainly, no or little ,enforcment. There is real risks of undoing years of "good will" allowing the Fire service access to areas of the public the police would never be given. The Fire service is small in comparison to the police which means that savings gained by a takeover would mean that a disproportionate impact.
19/07/2018 09:57:47	19/07/2018 10:11:38	Disagree	I strongly disagree with the proposal. I do not see any potential benefit for an unnecessary and costly additional layer of oversight and control. The functions of Police and Fire could not be more different and I can not see overlaps where savings could be reasonably envisaged. Democratic oversight has been exercised by County Councils for decades and although not perfect it is by concensus and not by a single politician who gains his/ her seat by such a small turnout. I feel the public do not understand why PCCs where brought into existence and some years later are none the wiser. The current PPC is trying to expand his powerbase and probably thereby increase his salary

			I am opposed to this proposal on the grounds that if it is successful there is a strong likelihood that we shall once again be fighting either the complete closure of several fire stations throughout the county or cutting their facilities and therefore endangering life and property. The County Council is opposed to change which is completely unnecessary and unwanted.

			NFRS should not come under the control of a PCC, not only has this person not served in the police he has not served in the fire service unlike our Chief Fire Officer. He has no experience of the issues that face the fire service and will only seek to implement the wishes of the Westminster elite who seek to reduce the fire service and privatise it. 			I disagree with this proposal. My father was a firefighter in Essex and it was always very important to him as it is to me that the service remain distinctly different both in image but also in role from the police force. Fire fighters are not policeman they never have been and should not be either. Their role is to help respond to accidents and emergencies and not to be seen as law enforcers. Whilst dressed up under the pretence of ensuring a more coordinated response your proposal primarily seems to hinge in cost cutting something which I wholeheartedly disagree with when it comes to our frontline emergency services. Instead of spending the time looking to ways of cutting corners and getting services to carry out similar roles and being governed in the same way perhaps the PCC should devote some time to lobbying for the correct funding that is not being supplied by our government.

			Where are you going to fit ALL fire service functions in at wymondham, there quite simply is not enough room and that is why the whole FRS staff have not moved down there presently, where are staff going to park? This will happen and you are just going through the motion of so called consultation, the idea that police / fire staff can share resources totally is impractical and will never reduce actual costs, on paper it sounds a good idea but practically all police / fire staff will tell you it won't work, that won't be taken into account because parliament want it to happen so it will, this survey or its comments are a complete waste if time as no account will be taken of it, if 51% of Norfolk people said they didn't want it to happen that should stop it but no it will go ahead, brexit has shown us that despite asking the public what it wants the majority does it get what they voted for!!

			A Pointless Exercise. Norfolk Fire and Rescue Service is performing well and delivering the best value for money, despite being slashed almost to the bone. The Brigade is regularly working in partnership with fellow services including the police I see they share premises including a HQ building as it is. I would have concerns over how the neutrality of the Fire and Rescue Service would be maintained should the Brigade come under the auspices of the Police and Crime Commissioner as opposed to the County Council.

			As the government is building more houses and there are more cars we should keep our fire appliances that this country have. There are grass fires that need a lot of appliances, as there is no water. To put a four by four in its place is ridiculous as we get no garden fires, if the appliances go and there's a fatality some one should be brought to account.

			Crime has gone up under this PCC, does this mean he is proposing the number of fires also go up under his watch ? No matter how he manipulates the statistics to prove the Fire Service would be better under his control, the evidence suggests otherwise.
			The NF&RS has an excellent track record of delivering a VFM service and is amongst the lowest funded but most effective in the UK. Moving it to the PCC would be detrimental for Norfolk and result in either an underfunded and inadequate service or a more costly service with no increased in effectiveness

			I strongly disagree. A committee of elected members by the people of Norfolk are in a much better position to serve the people of Norfolk. Yes the PCC is elected, but by a tiny percentage of the Norfolk population. The PCC post is an example of thoroughly unnecessary and ineffective governance a waste of tax payers money. NCC is the right organisation to look after the interests of Norfolk people. We should be removing power from the PCC not increasing it. The £10M figure has been plucked from thin air and has no real basis. To take that money and authority away from an organisation designed to safeguard and protect Norfolk people would be a terrible decision. If more efficiency can be realised this will be as part of a large organisation such as NCC with sufficient ICT, HR and internal services that are designed to support a large range of public services.

			He has turned the police force into an invisible service, only react to major crises now! His comments about the fire service show his total naivety about what a fire and emergency service is. The current service is just coping with the pressures of the weather! Cutting it back means it will not, vast majority of NFS crews are paid only a retained fee and callout wages. Selling off fire stations and amalgamating them will not work, as most police small stations are planned to amalgamate into a few hubs.

There is no scope for closure for any fire stations or further combining facilities. This is nothing more than a further attempt for the pcc to justify their existence. A better way to save money would be to abolish the pcc office and divert those funds back into front line policing.

21/07/2018 08:44:39	21/07/2018 08:48:53	Disagree	The figures in your business case do not stack up. The Council is losing gov grant by 2020 and yet you continue to factor that in. PCC should concentrate on getting the Police service right before he tries to mess with others. There is no support from the workforce. How many retained firefighters do you think will leave if PCC is in charge? We were told PCC had nothing to do with producing the business case yet it is written in the first person. I I I
21/07/2018 09:34:28	21/07/2018 09:40:25	Disagree	I was approached in King's Lynn town centre by the current PCC, he was making a very basic case to say that he would combine the two services, there was a lack of information and when challenged regarding the thoughts and views of the fire service staff, he said 'they are coming around' The survey he wanted people to fill in was a simple yes/no answer to which he had suggested that the fire service would be 'safer'; this is very misleading and I'm sure many people would have answered 'yes' because on face value they would agree with protecting the fire service in Norfolk. The information provided by NCC (should people choose to read it) is much more informative and allows for an informed decision to be made.
21/07/2018 09:39:11	21/07/2018 09:41:36	Disagree	Makes no sense and looks a lot like an attempt at self-aggrandisement by the Police commissioner (a tory)

Were the PCC a man who had proved himself capable of managing the police in such a way that they didn't rip council tax payers off more and more each year, I might think differently. As it is, I imagine that the cost of running both the police and the fire service will rise significantly of he gets his mits on both.

			This is just another way of so called cost cutting in order to achieve the cuts to the Norfolk Fire Service that were so bitterly opposed across the county only a few months ago. I have no doubt that the PCCC will take a large salary increase in order to justify doing two jobs. Stick to one job and concentrate on reducing crime and get more officers on the beat. Leave the Fire Service alone.

			Lorne Green is a fool to go down this route! It was proved not so long ago that Heacham does indeed need an appliance in the village and if anything the need for one only increases with the extra building in and around our village. What good would a single 4x4 with a Police officer and their truncheon be with a house fire? It is a complete joke! The 4x4 vehicle as an extra to our appliance would be great but not alone. This makes it clear to all that Lorne Green doesn't have a clue so why would we want him in charge? He certainly didn't get my vote and I doubt many others who did vote for him would do so again!

			Whilst both services are reached by dialling 999 they are completely different services - one is concerned with public order, the other with public safety. Many understanding is that the Fire Service is already one of the most efficient in the country and so further efficiencies could damage its ability to provide this public safety role.

24/07/2018 22:33:40	24/07/2018 22:35:05	Disagree	Absolutely ridiculous idea! One of the busiest stations in Norfolk and would be utterly useless if they haven't got a fire engine! We need this fire station with an actual fire engine to save life's!

25/07/2018 08:15:25	25/07/2018 08:27:19	Disagree	Although the services are both emergency services they are sufficiently different in their requirement of management style . It may be more economic to amalgamate the two services but in the case of fire or situations needing an immediate police response economy is not the main concern to most people. What the public needs is a prompt and effective response and if they were sure that any extra money would go to these ends they would not be averse to an increase in funding.

25/07/2018 10:43:09	25/07/2018 10:45:43	Disagree	This is wrong, why is a 'draft' business case being voted on? What changes will the actual business case include? Why are you asking fire fighters to conduct crime prevention roles? Smaller fire vehicles kill fire fighters, see Kent Fire Brigade. This is simply adding a level of bureaucracy the service doesn't need.

25/07/2018 16:51:21	25/07/2018 16:52:52	Agree	Policing has changed. Fire fighting has changed. Now is the time to recognise that policework and rescue work should be more tightly connected so that the public can be made safer and with one backside to kick
25/07/2018 16:49:34	25/07/2018 16:53:35	Disagree	I strongly disagree with the business case as both services are very different with the police being an enforcement service and the Fire Brigade a rescue service. I also believe that if all the services are under one hat it will mean that the already restricted services will be able to be cut further and quicker as there would be less consultation. This change would not be beneficial at all
25/07/2018 16:55:21	25/07/2018 16:57:16	Agree	One thing I hadn't realised was that making the change means that the Firemen get their OWN line on the Council Tax bill. This is good because it gives them more certainty over their long-term budgets and incentivises them to be more efficient. It should protect them from cuts and give them more responsibility

			The supposed benefits are minimal financially as these can all be easily achieved under current systems. If the Fire Service is to retain autonomy and all strategic decisions made by the qualified chief fire officer supported by the relevant committee which has legitimate democratic authority and easily held to account by the electorate, why do we then need the PCC to be involved. In addition the PCC although elected when one looks at the turnout there is no authority from the people. Better joint working is where necessary already a priority and if it can be improved there is nothing in the system that would prevent it. Joint working etc is already well established where required. This was however adversely affected when the PCC took over originally. The role of the Police is very much a Force the fire service is very much a service for and of the community. the effect on front line staff would be to encourage attacks on crews especially when lessons from recent riots are considered.

			I would have thought Mr Greene has plentyk keep him occupied with the failing Police force . Having witnessed first hand the Fire service in action at a major fire in Feltwell yesterday I would say it's in good hands as it is . I voted for a Police and crime commissioner not some all powerful manger of a joint services Commision . Leave the fire service as it is it works just fine .

			As a long serving member of the Fire Service I would like to make comment on the above proposal. I retired in 2002 having served over 35 years in Birmingham Fire and Ambulance Service, West Midlands Fire Service, Surrey Fire and Rescue Service and the Home Office New Dimension Team. I would most strongly object your stance in respect of the above. This topic was a continual matter for discussion during my time in the Fire Service, and long before the introduction of Police and Crime Commissioner (PCC). The Act, Chapter 1, section 2(1) requires that any collaboration agreement should be in the interests of the efficiency and effectiveness of that and other Services. I would suggest the implementation of such collaboration would be detrimental to both Services. The County Council will have been fundamentally involved in selection of the current Chief Fire Officer and would presumably be involved in any further selection in the future. One presumes the Council had every confidence in the officer selected. The Chief Fire Officer would not only have experience as an operational firefighter, the finance and management of the Service and its personnel, but developed political skills as an Officer of the Council. Why would anyone wish to select an individual without these skills and place a PCC, who undoubtedly would have the best intentions, as the overseer of such a specialist and important Service as this? I would, as an individual, only support the Option of the Fire and Rescue Service being the responsibility of the County Council but continue with collaboration with the Police or other services where appropriate. The funding of the Service should remain under the control of the County Council with the ability to vie any monies to meet local demands including major incidents, flooding and other unforeseen incidents.

			I think it makes perfect sense. It will allow greater efficiency and overall management of the Services.
			I also agree with Lorne about merging the police control centres for Norfolk and Suffolk - the same justification applies - major cost savings and greater effectiveness.

			The police need the focus of the PCC this attention cannot be divided.
			It's not a juggling act. Both Roles would need to separate people. It should be candidate ran & and not a self appointment.

			They have never run a Fire Service before and do not operate the same type of vehicles or equipment, so there is no obvious connection. NCC do operate a fleet of commercial vehicles and can and do provide support for Fire in many ways, include professional and admin functions.

28/07/2018 13:41:58	28/07/2018 13:47:09	Disagree	Running the fire service is not about making savings it should be about investment into a service that will need to grow as the number of houses and therefore the population and the associated infrastructure grows.
28/07/2018 13:46:07	28/07/2018 13:47:28	Disagree	The roles needed to run the police force and the fire department are completely different. We need to keep them separate so they can both run as effectively as possible

28/07/2018 15:19:59	28/07/2018 15:24:45	Disagree	The area of both Police and Crime, and Fire and Rescue is too vast, having someone in control of both I believe will negate or have negative impacts in one area or another which will then result onto incidents in the future and the county. Thinking of an all eggs in one basket scenario.
28/07/2018 15:30:25	28/07/2018 15:32:10	Disagree	The two are very often not linked and run in completely different ways. The focus needs to stay individual with good working relationships not overall control.
28/07/2018 16:01:09	28/07/2018 16:04:13	Disagree	NFRS operates well as they are currently, they do not need the interference of the PCC, if it ain't broke don't fix it!!
28/07/2018 16:05:22	28/07/2018 16:07:27	Disagree	I disagree with the whole concept of the pcc - and therefore have no wish for them taking over fire and rescue as well
28/07/2018 17:21:55	28/07/2018 17:24:07	Disagree	He needs to concentrate on policing. I'm far from convinced that he is doing an adequate job in that area alone.
28/07/2018 17:33:20	28/07/2018 17:38:10	Disagree	The police force has not been better, less officers and systems that don't work. The fire service should be kept separate in my view, they don't want this, and this should be taken into consideration.

28/07/2018 20:20:52	28/07/2018 20:22:33	Disagree	The PCC is already a waste of taxpayer's money, I don't think it has made a positive difference to our police service - in fact quite the opposite since we have lost our PCSOs! I wouldn't trust the PCC with the fire service as well, that seems like a disastrous move.

29/07/2018 07:00:49	29/07/2018 07:10:20	Disagree	Firstly the Fire Service is highly respected and supported by the communities they serve; sadly this is not the case for the Police Service. Secondly I have seen no benefit to the community of the introduction of the PCC role, rather a significant reduction in our Police Service, and am concerned this proposed change would have a similar adverse impact on our Fire Service
29/07/2018 07:20:44	29/07/2018 07:23:27	Disagree	After the response I got from the police when I reported a drug deal outside a school ("we can't send someone out for that") I don't think they should be trusted with the fire service.
29/07/2018 07:27:12	29/07/2018 07:29:13	Disagree	That's too much for one person and they are very different services.
29/07/2018 07:28:27	29/07/2018 07:40:12	Disagree	The existing NCC governance has a stronger mandate than if NFRS moved to PCC governance. The OPCC business case in my opinion lacks convincing justifications for taking the process to the next stage at considerable cost to the public purse. In addition there is the harder to quantify impact of NFRS staff being diverted from their essential duties while participating in the process to build the full business case.

29/07/2018 12:57:50	29/07/2018 13:16:18	Disagree	NFRS currently provides an excellent quality service and offers great value for money. Why change what already works? Plus replacing fire engines with 4x4s will mean less ability to respond as necessary, it will take longer to get crews to incidents and there will not be as many Fire Fighters able to attend. In recent weeks with the level of fires in the open, the fire engines with their capacity to carry high volumes of water, and carrying 8 Fire Fighters as opposed to 4 has been essential in managing the demand.

29/07/2018 17:23:56	29/07/2018 17:31:16	Disagree	Norfolk County Council has already invested in new buildings in suitable locations and its hand on the steering wheel means more of a say from Norfolk residents and businesses - how is the Police and Crime Commissioner going to top that when it isn't specialised, given that it already works with the council?

29/07/2018 18:32:27	29/07/2018 18:34:04	Disagree	I think the Police are specialist in what they do and fire chiefs are specialist in what they do therefore this role should be kept separate to ensure that each divisions priorities are championed!

29/07/2018 19:50:10	29/07/2018 19:54:10	Disagree	The Fire and Rescue service needs to stay under the control of the County Council as this is a vital service for rural Norfolk and must not be changed or streamlined as it will cost lives if the service is reduced in any way!

29/07/2018 20:02:29	29/07/2018 20:24:59	Disagree	What an absolutely ridiculous proposal. Lorne Green's ideas of cutting NFRS's appliances down to smaller less equipped vehicles makes no sense whatsoever. A recent example of this was the heatwave followed by flooding. Rural areas need fully equipped fire appliances to deal with all emergency's.
29/07/2018 20:21:34	29/07/2018 20:25:48	Disagree	They need one person to run each service and to run these in an excellent way. One person to run all is a disgrace, a mess and just cutting services and the way they are run in the correct and safe way.

			The two services already work well together but as separate organisations. To me this feels like empire building and nothing more. The Police Service in Norfolk has been cut to the bone, stations closed to the public, less Police Officers in the area, PCSO's gone & very little if any community engagement. 			I totally disagree with the service being under the control of the PCC, as a former member of the service I have always found it to be a service that Norfolk could be proud of. An amalgamation with the police commissioner would only be detrimental to the outstanding work they already do and will continue to do if they are left alone. BRoadland District Council were also not in favour of the amalgamation and voted strongly against it going any further. The police commissioner needs to focus on getting the best out one service rather than mess with two.

			I disagree that the PCC is the correct authority to take charge of the local fire service. I believe a degree of operational independence is essential to ensuring that each authority is focused on it's key priorities without distraction. I am concerned that giving the PCC power of the fire service will mean that the fire service will be an easy target for service reductions if budgets are pressured as they would be the smaller constituency.

			Norfolk Fire and Rescue service is already an exemplary service which does not need, or want any governance from an agency which struggles to maintain its own identity through lesser management. The only possible advantage to be gleaned from this move is the diverting of much needed funds to the Police. Tax payers rightly demand the best value from all service agencies which must continuously look to themselves to meet with modern demands. The few opportunities to make savings by joint governance all favour the police with little practical or experiential advantage for the Fire and rescue service. Stop the pointless interference from a jealous and immature commissioner. By all means look at how the service is run and learn from it. Don't try to improve th police at the expense of the Fire service and ultimately the public.

			The fire service and police service are two very different disciplines and require very different skill sets. Neither should be mixed.
			Furthermore, the protection of the public, whether it be fire service or police, should never be considered as a business case. If, as I suspect the PCC have put forward a plan based on savings and efficiencies, the proposal should be rejected. The former has never generated the latter, particularly in the public sector!

31/07/2018 13:18:10	31/07/2018 13:21:33	Disagree	Leave it how it is. If it's not broken, don't fix it. Although both are emergency services, they provide a different service. I wouldn't want to talk to a copper about fire, the same as I wouldn't talk to a fireman about an assault or a murder. The two operate different and should remain that way.
31/07/2018 13:27:27	31/07/2018 13:31:27	Disagree	This is bad management. Giving the Crime Commissioner such a broad remit is senseless and undemocratic. Power and such overall power is a recipe for abuse of authority. It has been proven time and again!
31/07/2018 13:30:22	31/07/2018 13:32:43	Disagree	The service would be diminished...leave it alone. It is an important service and needs to stand alone not be part of a cost-cutting exercise
31/07/2018 13:43:11	31/07/2018 13:44:55	Disagree	The fire service can work better on its own and let Norfolk County Council run it they do a good job of running things now and if the police commission it does it is that more money for him
31/07/2018 13:52:20	31/07/2018 13:53:11	Disagree	It would damage the fire service

31/07/2018 15:16:52	31/07/2018 15:23:10	Disagree	The Fire Service is a unique service with specialised skills that are very different from policing. You cannot and would not ask a police officer to put out a major fire or the other way round, you can not amalgamate the two forces why would you think you could do this with the most senior jobs.
31/07/2018 15:44:35	31/07/2018 15:46:06	Disagree	we have had enough of the changes we want it too have more input not less

31/07/2018 19:13:16	31/07/2018 19:35:38	Disagree	The police and fire are distinct services. The case seems only to be based on cost savings, and the two services already seem to be collaborating where this makes sense. My concern with the proposal is that as financial cuts continue one of the services will lose out

01/08/2018 00:13:51	01/08/2018 00:23:38	Disagree	The Police service where I live cannot tell me where a car accident has happened that they are actually in attendance at. Let alone leaving a Police Force in charge of a Fire and Rescue Service. Turn out software is atrocious, people's lives will be put at risk for the sake of the government another cronies saving a bit of money. Stop [REDACTED], fund the fire service and the police service separately and while you're at it give the Ambulance some funds too so it doesn't take 7 hours for a young child's dislocated kneecap! [REDACTED] [REDACTED] Really!!!
01/08/2018 06:10:45	01/08/2018 06:12:50	Disagree	I have seen changes within the policing resourcing which is instrumental in a local policing problem, especially with response time to criminal behaviour & anti-social behaviour. 01/08/2018 11:32:51	01/08/2018 11:40:51	Disagree	Both positions are of great importance and require much time and attention in order to not just deliver the same quality of service but to improve and develop it further. Having just the one person responsible for both could lead to a conflict of interests at times. Thusly, I believe two individuals specially trained and educated in their specialist field would enable a more beneficial service to the county rather than one man stretched over two.
01/08/2018 11:52:39	01/08/2018 11:57:48	Disagree	Although the Police Crimes Commisioner may work with the Fire department on various occasions, they are different in terms of their goals and emergencies. 			There comes a time when the older guard needs to move aside to allow for a structure of governance that will enable the needs of the citizens of Norfolk the services they want where they want them. To be able to embed a service that serves the growing needs of our communities must be undertaken. The current set up is tied by structure and systems that prevent much of this happening. And due to this there will be much resistance. I am concerned that you have not asked enough questions at this stage to ascertain what people actually know and what they actually want.

01/08/2018 14:53:44	01/08/2018 15:08:48	Disagree	I am completely opposed to any cut/down grading of the valuable local fire stations. Particularly the Heacham station which has high availability status and serves the community extremely well and efficiently. Heacham is a fast growing village and any suggestion that the service/protection we receive being damaged is totally unacceptable.

01/08/2018 15:22:14	01/08/2018 15:26:38	Disagree	The PCC should get control of crime in Norfolk first before trying to take on running the fire service that runs ok already. Theft is rife in rural areas. Sort that first!
01/08/2018 15:48:55	01/08/2018 15:52:22	Disagree	The PPC has run down the police service and I do not want it to do the same with the fire service. The fire service is effective and can be seen to serve the public and one never sees the police and they are too busy to respond to calls when required
01/08/2018 16:07:44	01/08/2018 16:10:20	Disagree	The Fire Service is currently running very well, they do not need someone to interfere with a smooth running service.

			Absolutely absurd idea. It will ruin the fire service if the proposal goes ahead. The PCC has no experience in managing the fire service, and would have no clue on how best to manage the service. He should stick with what he knows and leave the fire service alone.

			I believe the Fire and Rescue service should remain an independent service, having spent thirty years in the service, the public where always pleased to see us as friends to help them in time of need as with the Ambulance service, though we wore uniforms, I did not feel the Police had the same respect.

The service it delivers despite the ever increasing work load and ever decreasing budget is consistently exceptional. There is absolutely no need to try and fix and change a service that operating to the standard that NFRS does.

02/08/2018 07:49:28	02/08/2018 07:51:48	Disagree	The fire service should remain part of NCC which is an accountable organisation. If the PCC has time to look after the Fire Service he is either overpaid or not doing his Police job correctly how does he have time for both?
02/08/2018 08:06:11	02/08/2018 08:09:17	Disagree	I am not convinced the experience resides in the PCC to be able take on this responsibility. Further the identities and roles of our emergency services, whilst they must work in collaboration, should be maintained entirely separate to avoid conflicts now or in the future.

02/08/2018 12:14:16	02/08/2018 12:24:46	Disagree	From the initial proposal for Police and Crime Commissioners under the Coalition Government, I have been at best reluctant to see the management of day-to-day policing in the English and Welsh forces come under political control, believing that it was better for politicians both in Westminster and in the local government areas these forces serve controlling the strategic overview and providing an avenue to hold the police to account when things go wrong. A constabulary led by the police, and a fire service led by firemen with civilian oversight allows for those services to be run by men and women with years of experience and knowledge of their agency's inner workings, limitations, and requirements in order to function effectively, without an agenda set by a party leadership in Westminster or the threat of being ousted at the next election.

03/08/2018 10:09:41	03/08/2018 10:15:11	Agree	Putting NFRS and NC together makes sense to me because it will save money and the two services will coordinate together. Why not include the ambulance service as well, this would mean emergencies would be provided with appropriate support services quickly and efficiently.
03/08/2018 10:09:41	03/08/2018 10:16:11	Disagree	This is a totally stupid idea started by a person who is only interested in empire building with no thought to the local community

03/08/2018 10:17:03	03/08/2018 10:19:18	Disagree	These services in my mind need a separate individual leading as the service specialities/dynamics are very different

03/08/2018 10:20:48	03/08/2018 10:24:20	Agree	In principle because the Fire service is more akin to the police than the umbrella under which it presently resides.
03/08/2018 10:23:32	03/08/2018 10:25:09	Disagree	I do not agree with this. These services should not be controlled by one person.

03/08/2018 10:33:59	03/08/2018 10:35:50	Disagree	The PCC was not elected to control fire services. He has no mandate nor experience to do so. This appears to be a pure power grab by a Conservative Party stooge. He should cease and desist immediately.
03/08/2018 10:32:45	03/08/2018 10:36:53	Agree	Although this appears to be a good idea, I would not want to see the Police take on any role of the Fire Service nor the Fire Service become responsible for any of the Police Enforcement.
03/08/2018 10:41:12	03/08/2018 10:43:13	Agree	Why run two organisations whe one will do. Why not also bring in the Ambulance Service and have it all under one roof
03/08/2018 10:55:40	03/08/2018 10:56:46	Disagree	The Police have let st contact and efficiency, I don't want to see the Fire Service go the same way
03/08/2018 10:59:03	03/08/2018 11:01:17	Disagree	This will lead to a reduction of service in real terms
03/08/2018 10:59:53	03/08/2018 11:01:49	Agree	It would save time and effort by cutting out a bureaucratic step and ensuring better, faster decisions being made.
03/08/2018 11:02:30	03/08/2018 11:06:23	Disagree	this is empire building and is likely to lead to closing of rural fire service stations
03/08/2018 11:04:13	03/08/2018 11:07:31	Disagree	We have seen over the recent weeks that when we have events such as serious crop fires the local fire brigade are there quickly with the equipment to deal with the emergency. A small 4x4 would be of no use and valuable property or even life could be lost while awaiting the equipment needed to deal with.
03/08/2018 11:04:07	03/08/2018 11:07:41	Agree	It makes perfect sense.

03/08/2018 11:23:49	03/08/2018 11:26:38	Disagree	The current PCC is simply not up to the job of PCC let alone PFCC. Crime has increased as Police reorgs have failed dismally.

03/08/2018 12:45:36	03/08/2018 12:47:15	Disagree	Lorne Green would not want the Norfolk Fire and Rescue Service if he saw it as poorly ran. He only wants to takeover the NFRS so he can take financial resources from it to fund the ailing Norfolk Police. No No and NO!

03/08/2018 13:47:32	03/08/2018 13:51:51	Disagree	Heacham fire station has been under threat of closure once and beat it. We certainly don't need it to be under threat again. If recent events are anything to go by, ie, all of the fires due to the weather, then to close this and others like it would be utter stupidity. Closure can only mean one thing, more lives would be lost waiting for distant pumps to attend local fires.

03/08/2018 14:30:23	03/08/2018 14:33:18	Disagree	Cutting costs means cutting lives. The PCC is clueless about the damage he will cause. Leave it as it is and look at ways of fundraising or cutting costs elsewhere that won't involve people losing their lives, homes, businesses, wildlife etc etc

03/08/2018 15:31:40	03/08/2018 15:35:17	Disagree	The concept of reducing the fire service to bare minimum makes no sense whatsoever. This man has already decimated the police getting rid of all PCSO's he must not be allowed to do th same with the Norfolk Fire & Rescue
03/08/2018 15:38:03	03/08/2018 15:40:27	Disagree	Lorne Green works under the Tory Banner. It is the Tories with their failing austerity which has caused Public services to be crippled. Any decent government would fund them properly instead of giving tax breaks to business.

03/08/2018 18:23:38	03/08/2018 18:29:27	Disagree	Given events such as the lockdown in Cromer 2017, the ending of PCSOs it is clear the PCC is not fit to represent the people of Norfolk. So hands off the efficient and well managed Norfolk Fire Service. Just desperate to save money given poor Home Office funding. Picture burning bonanza map - that will be NFRS if the PCC get's his hands on it.

03/08/2018 20:24:35	03/08/2018 22:26:43	Disagree	Create a Fire commissioner role, separate the fire service from the council and give them more independence. One role should not govern both Fire and Police

You give no guarantee that all fire stations will be retained, unlike the County Council. This is costly, disruptive and is based on little evidence. There is no case for change and you have no mandate from the Norfolk people to do this.

			The office of PCC is a waste of time as it is - what genuine benefit do you think you have brought since coming in? What respect do you think you command - zero.
04/08/2018 11:17:55	04/08/2018 11:20:18	Disagree	Look at the poor turnout on the vote - no one is interested and there is no need for you to exist let alone reach into other roles, which once again you know nothing about.
04/08/2018 11:37:36	04/08/2018 11:40:18	Disagree	It is about time that the Police did what they are paid for without being involved with the fire service.
			The office of the PCC was imposed upon the public and has no real mandate, the voting turn out would prove this. Now they want to be in charge of the brigade as well? it's blatant empire building hiding behind the façade of 'elected officials'. In a way, I almost hope it happens because the FBU won't stand for being pushed around like the police have been.

			The potential for large fires in any area is high risk , however in a country area which has many static caravan sites the risk is multiplied because unlike a normal street in the village where a fire is likely to be spotted quickly on a static home site it is rarely fully occupied therefore a large fire could be well alight and spreading before it was noticed and it would need a fully staffed appliance and not a 4 x4 with a maximum 5 crew and half a dozen buckets.

The police force appears not to work under this scheme so how will this work, apart from saving money which we residents pay good money for and receive a second rate service. 			I believe the community is better served by keeping the Fire service and the Police as separate entities. They should continue to co-operate when the services work at the same incident. However Law Enforcement and Rescue are not the same and the oversight of the Fire Service by NCC is effective at present.

			Too much control resting on too few shoulders. The proposed efficiency savings amount to less than £1m per year spread over both fire and police services with a bias towards whichever service has seen the heavier efficiency saving. This is pocket change in the grand scheme of things and could be saved without this reshuffle and taking over of the fire service.

Without even thinking about front-line delivery it is clear from my view in the back office that there is much that can be done to reduce costs for both agencies. It seems to me that a joint governance structure is a win for both parties.

Further what has the intended incumbent achieved re the police force? Given all of the trouble in the north Norfolk seaside owns in recent years and the wanton destruction of the PCSO force when they were then really beginning to bear the fruit of their experience. So all of the costs attributed to them in setting them up have been totally wasted and the ensuing benefits thrown away too .And for good measure there have been "MASSIVE" increases in the police costs part of the Community Tax. What we the people of Norfolk really have to look forward to BASED ON THAT EXPERIENCE. So NO to the proposal and while we are about it all of the costs of the PCC administration could be better used to fund front line offices and reduce costs to hard pressed tax payers . So I think that the PCC should be abolished rather than the current Fire Service oversight. THERE ARE VERY FEW TAX PAYERS THAT HAVE SEEN THEIR SALARIES / WAGES INCREASE BY THE % INCREASES ON THE POLICE COSTS in recent years.

			Norfolk Fire Rescue Service is already one of the most efficient in the country, one of the cheapest per head and has one of the lowest ratios of back-office staff to firefighters. Co-working with the police is mature and advanced, includes Joint HQ, shared estates and back-office functions and will continue and progress without the governance change. The Governance change is not needed and not wanted by the Fire Service, the FBU or Norfolk County Council. The financial case for the governance change is weak and is principally based on the selling off of stations - 17 collocation schemes in 10 years - bringing in £3.784 million - and the downsizing of the Fire Fleet with the loss of 8 full-size fire engines - bringing in £4.068 million. This makes £7.852 million of the projected £10 million savings in 10 years - but all from cuts that would put public safety at risk or sell off the family silver. It is doubtful if the suggested £1.120 million in savings could really be made from economies of scale under Option 3 since NCC is a larger organisation both the Constabulary and the Fire Service. Also, Option 3 is inefficient as it wastes £1.533 million on extra back office costs, when the Police Commissioner's object was to gain the best value pound for pound. The takeover would mean: £315,000 spent on business advisers and accountants for the takeover over 14 months; £144,000 on increased governance costs; and £1.074 million on more accountants, auditors, estates and payroll staff over 10 years. The Business Case proves that governance of the Fire Service is cheaper with the Communities Committee of 13 members at County Hall than with one man, the Police Commissioner. (Figure on Pages 95-98 of the full Business Case). With a weak economic and efficiency case, the Government cannot make the order for the takeover. The case for effectiveness for the governance change is also weak. The suggestion of introducing jointly-badged vehicles would affect the identity and public face of the fire service as the humanitarian service it is. This would place effectiveness at risk. It is clearly a better deal for the taxpayer if the Fire Service stays with the County Council, as the service is cheaper run by the Council's Communities Committee and more efficiently and effectively, as the Fire Service is fully integrated with the County Council services, Adult Social Care, Public Protection, Public Health, Resilience and Flood Planning, and Trading Standards. The Firefighters are against the takeover. So are all 84 County Councillors. The County Council voted to protect the Fire Service and listened to the public in the 2016 Consultation. The new Fire Precept would be very unpopular and would have to rise steeply as the Fire Service would no longer be subsidised by the County Council as it now is. I think the Police, and Fire Service and Norfolk County Council should continue to work together and that the divisive split that the governance change would bring should be avoided and that, to his credit, the Police Commissioner should propose new ways of working together, short of a governance change.

07/08/2018 18:02:12	07/08/2018 18:04:30	Disagree	This proposal is just an excuse for more cuts to our fire service. Hands off!
07/08/2018 19:32:16	07/08/2018 19:33:04	Disagree	-
07/08/2018 20:58:51	07/08/2018 21:03:24	Disagree	This is a further erosion in the local authorities budget, where there are no guarantees that the PCC, having an almost irresistible bias to policing, wouldn't effectively transfer funds from the fire service to policing, with no checks and balances on that decision as there are within committees. It's no more than a land grab
07/08/2018 23:16:41	07/08/2018 23:19:34	Disagree	The PCC can't even get the job of overseeing effective policing of Norfolk right, having allowed it to be messed around with yet again. There is no way on earth the PCC should be allowed any input to another service as well, let alone the Fire Service.
08/08/2018 06:33:49	08/08/2018 06:36:04	Disagree	I think governance of the two should remain separate, to enable differentiation between the two services working practices and protect both groups of workers. I think the PCC should be solely focused on governance of the police and should be dedicating his time to dealing with matters to do with crime and policing, as opposed to trying to balance governance of the fire service as well. I think that closer partnership working is required, however I do not think this is the way to do it.
08/08/2018 08:32:37	08/08/2018 08:37:36	Disagree	Throughout the whole Business Case, the PCC's extensive rhetoric demonstrates either a distinct and complete lack of understanding of, or a total disregard of, the true concept of Governance. Governance is all about ensuring that the basic principles, ethics and reasons for being that are hard-wired into the job that an entity has been conceived to perform, are adhered to, carried out and protected against interference by other conflicting entities whose reasons for being etc differ from its own. The core reasons for being, or indeed why they were conceived, behind the Fire and Rescue Service and the Police Service, are fundamentally different and for this reason should never come under a common Governance. Put simplistically, the Police are there to seek out and catch the criminal and to reduce crime; the Fire and Ambulance Services are there to help the victims of crime - and also of accidents. Two completely different roles - one is active, the other is passive. Carrying out the roles, of course, involve both active and passive actions but the fundamental roles themselves are active and passive respectively. Therefore I believe that to put these two Services under one common Governance control, would be extremely damaging to their effectiveness and could even be dangerous. The Proposal should therefore be rejected.

			I believe that by unifying and streamlining our emergency services we will not only save money but provide a standardised service to the public. This can only be of benefit to the public we serve and the personnel who work in the emergency services

08/08/2018 10:04:58	08/08/2018 10:06:30	Agree	By working in partnership alongside the fire service I believe this could have a positive effect on our local community and if it possible to save money this has to have a positive long tern benefit for the Norfolk county in both policing and fire service. One person having responsibility for both fire and police has to make sense.

			Seems ridiculous, what expertise does Lorn Green have in fire services? There is no problem with the existing system, so why go looking for change? The PCC role is hardly one the public have indicated any appetite for, with miniscule voter turn-outs. It wasn't in the manifesto either, so there is no mandate fir change at all. Councils should retain oversight. How much will a change like this cost, and how do we know that fire budgets will be protected? The business case that has been produced also suggests that fire stations will have to be closed, which the public does not want at all. This whole scheme is a political nonsense that should be kicked into touch, along with the role of PCC.

			The Fire Service should not come under the Commissioners responsibility. His proposal to reduce the Fire Service to small vehicles, and hence how it is manned, capable of the smallest of fires or incidents only, is not in the best interests of this community as recent incidents have shown. His comments to council show his inexperience when stating small vehicles are only needed to cover minor bin fires etc. Has he thought of all the road accidents and incidents that are attended by the Fire Service with specialist cutting and hydraulic jacking equipment used by highly trained staff. This level of equipment cannot be carried on small vehicles nor enough skilled operatives required for the tasks in hand. Only having these facilities at a few sparsely spread stations is not what the community wants. The time taken to get them across the county would be the difference between life and death in many cases. It amounts to empire building without the knowledge and experience required for maintaining an efficient Fire and Rescue service. His comments clearly show his lack of knowledge in this area so in my view he is not suitable to lead the Fire Service as it would damage both the Fire Service and the community it serves. No doubt he personally may win a few medals and plaudits for cost cutting though ! Perhaps if his families recent firework celebration in Snettisham had required the Fire service because of a mishap, as many firework parties do, his view may have been different.

08/08/2018 15:00:42	08/08/2018 15:03:35	Disagree	There should not be any reduction in appliances for a large rural area where fires of agricultural land and buildings can and do frequently occur a 4x4 equipped for bin fires is absolutely not appropriate for this area and Mr Greens proposals clearly demonstrate that he has no knowledge or care for the local area and should not take over responsibility.

			I don't have any indication that that the incumbent PCC has suitable management skills to be overall PFCC. In fact after the debacle with travellers at the sea side last year I doubt his abilities as PCC. Another politician parachuted in to have a stranglehold over public services. Is either post necessary? Is his salary going to swallow up resources that are needed for policing and firefighting?

			Why does Mr Green say that the fire service will be in safe hands with him when he has already proposed removing 8 vital fully operational front line appliances? Why is he not being open about this at his public appearances? By saying there will be no closures he is giving a false impression of the future safety of the people of Norfolk.

			Makes for a more efficient and quicker responding organisation able to adjust to change that is occurring in blue light services. At the moment NFRS are tied to an antiquated governance structure that makes it slow to adjust and modernise the service. They are also subject to the financial constraints and savings within NCC when elements should be ring fenced. Moving forward there are some good savings to be made in back office functions and the economies of scale will save money for the council tax payer.

09/08/2018 18:08:08	09/08/2018 18:13:57	Disagree	Lorne Green, the PCC has politicised the Police Service. He is a lapdog of the Government and taking control of the Fire Service will not benefit Norfolk. There should be a unitary authority for Norfolk controlling the emergency services. The PCC is an irrelevance and the budget for him and the support staff should return to where it belongs - to the Police Service

09/08/2018 21:01:47	09/08/2018 21:07:48	Disagree	Absolutely absurd idea. He has no experience or clue on how to run a fire & rescue service. It could potentially cost lives and jobs if he gets control. The proposal is ludicrous and it should be scrapped immediately. Leave Norfolk Fire & Rescue as it is, a truly wonderful service, don't let it be run by the PCC, if it is, I fear for the future.

09/08/2018 21:13:19	09/08/2018 21:18:50	Disagree	The commissioner should concentrate on the police only
09/08/2018 21:16:41	09/08/2018 21:20:29	Disagree	Leave the running of the Fire Service to those who know it best, the wonderful Fire Officers, firefighters and retained firefighters who risk their lives helping to keep us safe, rescue us in an emergency and promote fire safety
09/08/2018 21:22:09	09/08/2018 21:26:15	Disagree	I am concerned that a service which is performing badly (i.e. less than 9% of crimes reported lead to a conviction) who is struggling to manage its own budget and have sufficient police personnel should wish to take over the budget of a service which is performing well. The Fire Service is a very good service where it is - it should be left in Norfolk County Council's hands.

09/08/2018 21:55:58	09/08/2018 22:16:43	Disagree	Absolutely disagree with this. Leave the Fire Service alone and focus your attention on the multitude of issues within Norfolk Constabulary.
09/08/2018 22:29:11	09/08/2018 22:30:38	Agree	The fire service is heavily under utilised (most of the time) and requires modernisation to bring it into line with other public services.
09/08/2018 22:44:26	09/08/2018 22:46:23	Disagree	The fire service do a fantastic job on a stretched budget. 			This summer has proved that to close more fire stations is dangerous to the safety of the communities in West Norfolk. It has been stated that the Heacham fire station would loose the fire engine and be replaced by a 4x4 vehicle which would only be useful for putting out small fires. There are not enough fire engines as it is to cover the Norfolk area, only recently 8 fire engines were called to one fire in Ringstead, and what would have happened if another fire had broken out? Let the Police do their job and leave the Fire Service to do their job. Why should the Police Commissioner Lorne Green be able to dictate the future of the Fire Service and the wonderful job it does, just to save money when lives are at stake. In the case of the replacement of Heacham fire engine with a 4x4 vehicle, how would it put out a big fire and use ladders etc to rescue victims from high buildings or pump out water from flooded areas or rescue car crash victims.

			Having seen Mr Green speak at a recent 'consultation' it is clear that he has no interest in listening to the views of others. He has a political agenda that is all to do with serving his belived Cibservative Party and nothing whatsoever to do with improving or protecting services in our county. The fact that he describes cuts as savings and told the audience that our area would have more officers due to the disposal of PCSOs (clearly untrue) tells me that he cannot be trusted to manage the fire service.

11/08/2018 11:01:43	11/08/2018 11:09:03	Disagree	With planning permission already in place for a huge influx of new builds in Heacham, it is quite out of the question to take our FIRE CREW away from us. We had a fatel house fire not long ago, and thanks to the FIRE CREW, they did stop the fire spreading, although a valued community person was lost due to smoke inhalation. To take away the fire engine is the most stupidest thing, and most typical of the Big Wigs to think of. We need our fire engine, and most likely if Heacham increases much more, another engine full size, not a dinky toy. Bad enough with the extra housing coming in with no extra schools, doctors or other essential facilities. Grow up and think carefully before you do such a stupid mistake out.. SAVE LIVES NOT ENDANGER THEM.

Surely Mr Green and any future PCC has enough on their hands running the Police Force; which I may add is under-staffed and must be sorely missing the PCSO's as they were the Polices' eye's on the beat. In the proposal, Heacham Fire Station would be downgraded and only be equipped with a 4x4 vehicle with the capability to but out bin fires or attend RTC's. Ridiculous!! As a resident of Heacham I want our (hard fought for) Fire Station retained with full sevice cabability.

			I see this as Empire building, I strongly disagree with the amalgamation of Fire and Police We already have a Police Superintendent and Fire Chief with a wealth of experience in their field, why do we need a Commissioner with all the costs involved to oversee and meddle in the workings of services which are already well established and work well. I already disagree with a Police Commissioner and to try to takeover a well run Fire Service is a step to far. Both services are not for profit or cost cutting but should have budgets increased not cut

They have saved many lives by being on scene quickly. Take them away and response time will be much longer putting lives at risk. Outwell has had a fire station for all of my life over 60 years It was threatened with closure not so long back and the Station manager work long and hard to recruit men and women which he did successfully. The rural community of Outwell and surrounding area needs those brave men and women and the wonderful service they provide keeping us all safe.
13/08/2018 08:35:58	13/08/2018 08:38:16	Disagree	I don't believe they have tackled the fire of crime burning through the area as it is, they shouldn't be given even more responsibility in an area they know nothing about. The agricultural community would suffer to great detriment should the Outwell fire station be cut by a bureaucrat with no idea about fire safety & the importance having local crews is to somewhere like this. The lives it saves are not throwaway

			We are rural and have had 4 arson attacks on our home. Were it not for the proximity of our local fire service (upwell) on the last attack my children and i would be homeless. The during the 30 - 45 mins it takes for other crews to arrive to this cluster of villages the damage done to a home is massive, some people cant afford insurance these days. After 4 arson atracks and a robbery we certainly cant nor can many others in this local. To remove this will deprive us of life saving services and is robbing peter to pay paul. Its a rediculous suggestion.

			As long as the new PFCC is democratically accountable, and the whole exercise is not an excuse for service-cutting. Joint management should mean a cut in overheads, not a cut in front-line services Just think of all those managerial skills that can be put to use on the front-line in future!!!

			From hearing some of the changes prwposed I believe it would have more of a negative impact than positive and am sure another solution can be sorted, especially from my area an having the fire station decreased to a smaller appliance this will cause future issues and risks where incidents have had to wait longer at the cost of lives for the correct appliances to turn up.

14/08/2018 12:04:57	14/08/2018 12:10:06	Disagree	The Fire Service has taken a battering recently in rural areas resisting closures and other changes; so now is not the time to add more uncertainty. The compliments, and lack of complaints, about the current Fire Service speak for themselves; so leave it alone. Mr Green is just looking for a way to increase his powers knowing that his post as PCC is/will be under threat.
14/08/2018 14:05:54	14/08/2018 14:12:38	Disagree	[REDACTED] I am extremely concerned about possible plans to change the Fire Station services in the village. [REDACTED] [REDACTED] As a very large village Heacham must retain our station and engine. The already large population of Heacham increases significantly during the Summer months and with all the holiday and caravan parks in the village surely we must ensure that residents and visitors to the village are protected. Please do not remove any of the fire services in Heacham.

			We have already had to campaign to save the Heacham fire station once, which thankfully was successful. This and other fire stations with their 'proper' fire appliances and dedicated staff are an essential requirement of the village and outlying areas. I believe that the PCC should stick to policing the county and leave the Norfolk Fire and Rescue Service to run it's own business.

			This makes no sense. If two of our emergency services were to come under a single point of control then it should be the ambulance service and the fire service. They at least do a similar role where efficiencies could be made through a different operational model. ☒

15/08/2018 19:51:52	15/08/2018 19:57:16	Disagree	These may all be emergency services but they differ in governance. The PCC was elected on a very small majority from a poor turn out as Policy and Crime Commissioner and should stay at that. Blending the services together would not serve the community and would inevitably lead to closures of fire stations (90% of which are not .staffed but local and manned with retained officers) Sending a policeman with a fireman to attend a fire is beyond comprehension because this takes away from vital policing resources unless, of course, there is suddenly more money for training - but then I would still hope for a dedicated fire office for a fire and a police officer for a crime. These services are DIFFERENT and should not be merged.
15/08/2018 19:57:43	15/08/2018 20:02:51	Disagree	The PCC has yet to justify his position with the Police as far as members of the public can see. Crime is going up, fewer police are seen and the percentage increase in Council Tax is higher than for other services.

16/08/2018 08:47:30	16/08/2018 08:50:16	Disagree	The PCC is an unnecessary political role within it's existing remit. To expand that remit to other emergency services is undemocratic, and gives too far reaching power to a single individual. It is best that these services are run autonomously by their own expert members.

A 4 by 4 will not be adequate in a large parish, where significant development is taking place, It is vitally important that the local fire station (Outwell) is kept fully equipped with a full size appliance. Downham Market is 9 miles away and the response time could have serious consequences.

16/08/2018 14:46:46	16/08/2018 14:50:41	Disagree	The fire service is run perfectly fine under the control of the County Council. The PCC should concentrate on improving the constabulary and not get mission creep, that wasn't what he was elected to do. There is also talk of £10m savings over 10 years if both services came under the PCC - I'm afraid I don't buy this. I also think if savings were this easy to make the County Council could do that? If it's savings made on Police stations merging with fire stations under once roof, that could also be achieved without being under the control of the PCC.

			Norfolk Constabulary is struggling with funding and resource issues, which the PCC is not addressing. I would not want a PCC to have fit in running our Fire Service as well: too many eggs in one basket, too many distractions, too many priorities. I applaud sharing some resources like office and training facilities to ensure full usage.
16/08/2018 18:03:27	16/08/2018 18:07:21	Disagree	Keep the Fire Service as it is.
			I do not agree with the proposal to loose eight fire engines which are fully equipped to serve the every growing community of Heacham and Hunstanton. Nearly every day the fire service is called out to to some serious problem in our area and I feel along with many other people in our family that as water is in short supply we would feel safer with the traditional fire engine service in our area. If there were wild fires in this area it would be catastrophic. We don't think anything less than the big engines would be sufficient.

His answer to all questions on the Nick Conrad show a while back was "watch this space". This is a poor proposal. Which will only be proven after a total disaster and loss of lives. Sadly, like so many of today's decisions, made in the name of cost cutting. eg: Grenfell Tower The responsibility, for which ultimately will fall at the feet of one persons unilateral decision. Made in the name of finance. Money saving on paper. But devastating costly to those who's lives are lost. That person will be Lorne Green.

			Efficiency savings should be reinvested in more front line policing. Efficiencies should be achieved through improved processes and procedures, NOT staff reductions, for example combined IT systems, better negotiated IT supplier contracts, stopping unnecessary or wasteful activities. Funds should be used to increase visible police presence on the streets.

			The Police and Fire services have been historically kept separate for a reason(s). The reasons have not changed and to think that this would be done to give one man greater power is inherently wrong. The case for saving money by merging is a misnomer. It would lead to savings by cuts either in supporting the service or on the front line. Both services have faced enough cuts since 2010 so no more please!

			The Fire Service needs to be independent of the Police in order to retain ALL funding made available to that Service for its own needs. The emergency services already appear to co-operate and liaise extensively in order to provide the services required. This proposal could be construed as 'empire building' by the PCC.

22/08/2018 14:28:14	22/08/2018 14:29:39	Disagree	I think the police and crime commissioner has quite enough to do with dealing with police matters especially as violent crime and drug related crime seems to have risen over recent years.
22/08/2018 14:29:44	22/08/2018 14:30:26	Agree	Would enhance two services that already work closely together.
22/08/2018 14:18:42	22/08/2018 14:35:17	Disagree	The Fire service must be independent of any other form of control as a retired firefighter we were always looked as someone who was there to HELP were as police were looked at as the enemy and with suspicion they are two totally different services money is not every thing in the fire service you have to prepare for the ultimate event , bridge flood bomb these can not be counted by cost. Giving the control to the current police commissioner who is concerned with cost will result in cost efficiencies to the detriment of fire fighting and road traffic incidents to name but a few
22/08/2018 15:17:20	22/08/2018 15:19:15	Disagree	No apparent transparency with regard to the current P&C Commissioner's proposal to remove 8 appliances and replace with 4x4 vehicles. 			I am concerned that this move concentrates more influence in an individual and is not in the best interest of the services concerned nor the public. The checks, balances and controls vested in institutions give more surety of common sense. Where power is vested in an elected individual we inevitably increase the risk of making policy based on emotion and what will "play well" with the electorate rather than what actually makes most long term sense based on expert opinions.

			In Norfolk it is pointless asking us what we think, when you give away money on awards that are useless and waste money giving to charities then what bother saving our money. You will only save more to squander more

22/08/2018 17:29:47	22/08/2018 17:32:37	Disagree	The ethos of the two services is quite different and I am not persuaded by the arguments for change. Too broad range of powers and the savings proposed are largely irrelevant.
22/08/2018 17:46:40	22/08/2018 17:49:12	Disagree	This could easily disrupt the smooth running of both services.
22/08/2018 17:42:31	22/08/2018 17:52:58	Disagree	With only a 23.2% turn-out for the 2016 PCC election one wonders what credentials you have to now look to assume governance of Norfolk's Fire and Rescue service. Indeed, what experience do you have of running a FARS?
22/08/2018 17:58:44	22/08/2018 18:00:15	Disagree	The PCC's record with the Police is a very poor one and we don't want an excellent Fire Service ruined as well.

We do not need a commissioner, we need someone who knows the service and can improve it.
22/08/2018 19:24:47	22/08/2018 19:26:44	Disagree	I am worried that the proposed reduction in full sized fire appliances will have an adverse effect across the county

			I am a retired Norfolk Fire Officer (Station Officer). During my 26.5 years service I formed the opinion that the Fire Committee (as it then was) were out of touch with the Fire Service, and, being politically driven would some times use the Fire Service as a "political football. As for out of touch: the CFO at the time, when asked by a Committee member "what is a Water Tender", gave his explanation to which the Member replied "Oh a water tanker" why do you need 4/5/ men to run a water tanker? On another occasion: My Watch were doing a practical demonstration, for new Fire Committee Members, of how we release a casualty from an RTC, a Member turned to me and said "Yes, but what if you cant get them out?" THE THOUGHT HAD NEVER OCCURRED TO ME - WE ALWAYS GOT THEM OUT.
23/08/2018 08:18:36	23/08/2018 08:38:23	Agree	Please Mr Green, take the Fire Service away from these people.

			The fire service should stay independent. It does not need somebody else like the pcc sticking his fingers in and making decisions about something he knows nothing about! He is not an expert in this field nor is he an expert about policing. He is there to save money...we'll get rid of him and his team and a lot of key will be saved!!! Do not merge!

			As a member only of the public with no direct connection with either the Police or the Fire and Rescue Service I can only see the situation from that view, however I do agree with the comments of Lorne Greene and feel that his ideas and concerns for public safety are right and having overall responsibility for these essential will be a very good position for a PFCC.
			Unnecessary additional level of bureaucracy. The entire post of PCC should be removed and the funds put into additional police resources at street level.

			While both organisations work together on many incidents, each has very different aims, ambitions, motives and outcomes. While each has roles in public protection, there must be an element of independence for each organisation, and I fear that amalgamating the governance will lead to an erosion of the distinctive differences between the police and fire and rescue.

			Need police to do proper Job and police properly instead. Of pushing everything on line and doing nothing and leave fire chief to do his job which has taken years of training, next thing fire stations will close and then pco will make it so fires be reported on line and wait for a reply for days on end and fires burn. Each to their own leave fire service alone.

			The role of PCC was never needed in the first place so for him to get his hands on the Fire Service as well would be disastrous.

			I am already opposed in principle to the creation of the party political post of "Police & Crime Commissioner" in any case and cannot therefore agree to an extension of the powers held by any incumbent. Police Authorities and Chief Constables should manage the Police Force whilst Fire Authorities and Chief Fire Officers should manage the Fire Service.

			I believe that the Norfolk Fire Service should be left alone and not run by the PCC. Mr Greene should concentrate his efforts with making our Police Force a more substantial and reliable service. I believe that Mr Greene would make cut backs and redundancies to the Fire Service in an effort to justify a means of promised savings. Leave the running and management of Norfolk Fire Service to those who have done so with great efficiency in the past. What experience does Mr Greene have with the Fire Service? I expect there'll be a nice fat pay rise should this ridiculous proposal go ahead.

			This proposal is not appropriate and is also not wanted by residents, firefighters and NCC. The FRS should remain independent, not merged with police and crime remits. Moreover, the proposal plans to replace essential fire trucks already in use in my rural community with 4x4s. We have large open fires in farmland here. We need our small local fire stations to remain open and fully equipped, as we are first on the scene to fight these fires. The commissioner needs to listen to opposition to his plans and step back. The proposal is bad for Norfolk's community safety and community cohesion. We don't want our Fire Service cut, merged or tinkered with. It works well already.

Fire service should be left in the very capable hands of the people who work in it day to day. The FBU have already gained over 1500 signatures against the proposal which should be respected. This is not in the interest of people, it is once again looking at profit.

			Having fought a couple of years ago to keep Heacham Fire Station open, I cannot begin to understand why the PCC thinks it is a good idea to replace the current service with a 4 x 4! There is no sense whatsoever in this thinking. In rural areas such as ours, fire stations are located quite a distance from each other and therefore response times are longer. If Heacham is "down-graded" and the engines at Hunstanton are out on a shout, there is no other fire station on the coast between here and Wells. If the PCC is prepared to have peoples lives put at risk by not providing a basic modern day service, then he is not worth saving himself. I know behind this is money but why is the option of getting rid of the PCC not up for discussion?

			Norfolk needs more money to be spent on increasing the number of police officers. Norfolk does not need or want a commissioner who is using the budget for his own personal political ends with hundreds of thousands of pounds going into budgeting for his staff and now his personal crusades. This person is in post with the votes and support of far less than half of the counties population and the post was never needed. Leave policing to those who understand the role and our needs, the police themselves.

			What ever the outcome of this consultation this individual will still take governance ove the Fire Service. Another power grab by a individual who wants to serve his own ego. The Service is run efficiently and with a high level of professionalism without his input at the moment. Long may it continue. Unfortunately I feel it won't as my comments won't even be responded to. As for low level crime, it seems like the police have given up on that. It is not necessarily true that what is of financial benefit to the community is also socially beneficial. Sometimes we have to bite the bullet and pay for what we need. What is required is an easing of the Central tax burden and an acceptance that Local government can increase the necessary charges to the community it serves.

27/08/2018 17:13:14	27/08/2018 17:33:04	Agree	Congratulations on a comprehensive and well written document. I have not read every small detail of your proposals, but sufficient to convince me that this is the way forward for NFRS. I served 32 years in the FRS and when I joined in the sixties, Herts was a Fire and Ambulance Service. Minor domestic skirmishes aside, it seemed to work very well. So perhaps taking on the emergency ambulance response could be your next step, along with that poor relation of the 999 services, HM Coastguard. A pipe dream I suspect? I would think Northamptonshire FRS is somewhat relieved at the decision to transfer, given the dire state of the County Council ! Anyway, good luck with the project, I shall follow progress with great interest.
27/08/2018 17:56:29	27/08/2018 17:57:54	Disagree	Norfolk fire and rescue belong to the fire service not the police. Having a 4x4 is no replacement for a pump. Lives will be lost this way, waiting for pumps to arrive from further afield. how's that for saving money??

28/08/2018 09:53:01	28/08/2018 09:54:46	Agree	Responding to emergencies is and has always been done in collaboration with partners. The fire service and police are almost always on scene at incidents together and to have a shared service would enable greater efficiency and effectiveness.

28/08/2018 10:33:32	28/08/2018 10:37:59	Disagree	Although both blue light teams Norfolk Fire and Rescue Service would not benefit for a closer link with Norfolk Constabulary who are seen as enforcers rather than the savers of life.
28/08/2018 10:59:08	28/08/2018 11:01:51	Disagree	The proposals laid oiut in the pamphlet are a complete waste of council tax payers money. I voted for a county council which is the democratic way to run services, we do not need a PCC either. I suspect you will only be interested in supporting those who favor the PCC. Extending the power to the fire service, a complete waste of time and money, what next all the M.P's?
28/08/2018 11:02:00	28/08/2018 11:04:34	Disagree	I believe a crime commissioner is quite unnecessary. it will simply and certainly be a waste of money. To put the fire service under him is quite ridiculous

28/08/2018 16:03:29	28/08/2018 16:06:43	Disagree	In my opinion it should be kept separate. it has worked up till now, I don't think putting all the eggs in one basket would benefit the community.

28/08/2018 16:07:44	28/08/2018 16:10:29	Disagree	The Police and Crime Commissioner is largely anonymous in public life and I have felt a decrease in trust for the local police and a decrease in effectiveness for the police since the PCC position was established. It does not seem like a good idea to combine the oversight for the fire crew and the police force to one political figure. Control of both of these service should be independent from one another and run by a group of people who understand both forces and can help direct them according to the needs of the local community.
28/08/2018 16:14:03	28/08/2018 16:17:44	Disagree	whilst the two often work together, I believe each should have its own Commissioner.
28/08/2018 16:27:07	28/08/2018 16:29:50	Disagree	Norfolk Police are little to no use to residents. Perhaps when they have their own affairs in order this might be a sustainable idea, but myself and the people around me believe that if this proposal went ahead it would be to the detriment of the fire service in Norfolk and the people of Norfolk.
28/08/2018 16:36:20	28/08/2018 16:39:42	Disagree	They need to stay separate, the police struggle with crime and the service will get too big.

			I have yet to see any evidence that there has been any, even slight, increase in the effectiveness of policing since this post was created. In fact, my feeling is that things have slipped badly since this role came into being.

28/08/2018 19:50:18	28/08/2018 19:55:39	Disagree	They may both be emergency services but this does not mean they are interchangeable and just anyone can manage a Fire Service - the only argument for seems to be financial with "savings". Doubtful that these savings will save lives, and there would most likely be no savings in the amount dished out to the engineers and orchestrators of this scheme. They will be the ones who gain, whilst the staff, service and public lose out.

			I have only now heard about this and haven't had time to consider the how appropriate a change should be. I believe that skillsets of a fire respondant, police respondant and paramedic should co-exist in any attendant to a situation, meaning an individual can support as needed without having to wait for an alternate service to attend. This does not mean I think the fire service should fall under the PCC... the PCC needs a rethink in any case, and to lump the fire service into something that is barely operating is not the answer. I'd like to understand what the current employees within the fire service see as an improvement to how the service could operate before any changes are made. i suspect the PCC are looking for 'easy' extra funds and are not focussing on improving the service provided
28/08/2018 20:58:13	28/08/2018 21:11:04	Disagree	There is no need or desire for fire fighters to be controlled by a PFCC. Someone who will no doubt have little or no experiance in the field they are expected to control. Leave the fire brigade to decide what is best for the first brigade as they have our utmost respect and confidence.

28/08/2018 22:24:31	28/08/2018 22:26:54	Disagree	This transfer is NOT a good use of public money, as a resident of Norfolk I can see that this is just about attempting to increase the power of the PCC, it is not about improving a service, or making a more efficient streamlined service. Fire and Police already work closely together, what is the need to transfer at a great deal of cost to the public purse.
28/08/2018 22:35:59	28/08/2018 22:38:10	Disagree	The Fire Service has a culture of its own and a long history. It is a different kind of service and a different ethos. It should remian independent

It is essential that our public services are autonomous and properly funded. It will damage both services to try and split their resources between two services.
29/08/2018 08:24:15	29/08/2018 08:27:30	Disagree	The PCC should focus on improving the police service. The fire service does not need the PCC interfering in the running of the fire service.

29/08/2018 15:40:42	29/08/2018 15:42:45	Disagree	It is better under the full umbrella of the County Council. If there is a major incident where is the necessary finance going to come from?
29/08/2018 15:49:14	29/08/2018 15:51:17	Disagree	I don't think the business case is accurate I think a PFCC would be less democratic in terms of governance I think the fire service does a lot with other NCC departments that would not do as well otherwise
29/08/2018 16:13:43	29/08/2018 16:14:40	Disagree	Keep it safe and not in the PCC's control !

29/08/2018 17:43:58	29/08/2018 17:50:37	Disagree	I can see no advantage to the PCC becoming PFCC, I have never seen the PCC since he was appointed so how often would we or the Fire Service see him if he becomes PFCC. I have no confidence in a person who, when the decision to disband all PCSO'S was made he publicly states that that if he had all the money in the world he would never employ a PCSO again. What gratitude he has shown to all those who worked tirelessly to support the Norfolk Police.
29/08/2018 17:56:53	29/08/2018 17:58:33	Disagree	I don't think there is a need for full governance by the PCC, however, I agree there should be more collaboration between the governing parties.

29/08/2018 17:59:58	29/08/2018 18:20:27	Disagree	The PPC I believe needs to just concentrate on Policing matters and get that right and continue to get it right and for the PCC to leave the Fire Service and NCC to continue as they are.

29/08/2018 19:00:33	29/08/2018 19:02:02	Disagree	Lorne Green's actions seem to be self motivated. This attempt is going to put people's safety and lives at risk if accepted. Keep the fire service in County Council hands.
29/08/2018 19:03:57	29/08/2018 19:08:25	Disagree	Much improvement and resources are required to improve an already stretched Police force, and the commissioner should concentrate on a radical improvement programme to achieve this in the first instance before attempting to undertake other responsibilities

29/08/2018 18:47:07	29/08/2018 19:10:08	Disagree	For the PCC to take on more responsibility would be lunacy. I also doubt whether the millions in savings would materialise. Proposals like this always create over optimism.

30/08/2018 07:52:10	30/08/2018 08:18:59	Disagree	The Norfolk County Council's website has delivered much greater detail about the proposal including references backing up claims which immediately makes the account more reliable in my opinion. The PCC's proposal is written up with figures such as £10 million in savings which are not broken down, explained, or referenced. In other words written by a politician. I think public services should be run by those who have spent their careers learning and understanding the role, not 'held to account' by a politician new to the organisation. The merger would also be the beginning of combining emergency services which is not good for staff or the public as it would inevitably lead to fewer people doing the same amount of work.
30/08/2018 08:16:00	30/08/2018 08:21:17	Disagree	This is a naked power grab or Empire building. What will he be after next? Childrens' Services? I fail to see how one man can control two large organisations. The Police need a full time eye on it so how can Mr Green manage two large organisations? I do not believe the £10 million savings and if there is that amount of money will it be shared between the two or as I strongly suspect all go to the Police in detriment to the Fire Service. The County Council looks after us very well.

30/08/2018 08:43:52	30/08/2018 08:45:30	Disagree	I strongly feel that the PCC should not take on the governance / oversight of Norfolk Fire and Rescue
			I feel the proposal shows a distinct lack of understanding regarding the fire service and is filled with assumptions as to the benefit the change could provide. The 10M saving is misleading and wouldn't be solely from the proposed change. Most of the benefits proposed could be achieved by providing the PCC an input but this does not necessitate such a vast change. The enhanced voluntary collaboration provides much of the benefit with far less disruption and risk and this seems a far better option than the proposed creation of a new role and governance. The PCC themselves can change with each election and thus a new PCC (or PFCC) could cause further disruption if they have differing approaches and views. The current governance retains an organizational experience and memory that the PFCC clearly lacks and a continuation of service that is very much needed in the service. They are changing and already delivering much of what the PCC suggests is necessary and they have the experience to provide the service, as they have done successfully to date. My personal opinion having read both sides position is the proposed change seems wholly unnecessary and full of promises and light on facts and experience.

			The fire service and police service are two very different disciplines and require very different skill sets. Neither should be mixed.
			Furthermore, the protection of the public, whether it be fire service or police, should never be considered as a business case. If, as I suspect the PCC have put forward a plan based on savings and efficiencies, the proposal should be rejected. The former has never generated the latter, particularly in the public sector!

30/08/2018 11:42:25	30/08/2018 11:59:10	Disagree	The case made to support this proposal is fatally flawed because most of the saving claimed are not shown to be deliverable terms of acceptable safety risk and public support. Furthermore, such savings aren't reliant on a change of governance - many are planned to be delivered under the current governance. Finally, the track record and public perceptions of the PCC governing the Police is poor compared to the previous Police Authority and there's no public appetite for change for change sake especially when the cost of delivering it and the prospective benefits haven't been accurately calculated or verified.
30/08/2018 11:57:57	30/08/2018 11:59:12	Disagree	It's empire building by a government entity that no one wanted in the first place.

30/08/2018 17:51:23	30/08/2018 18:01:04	Disagree	The plans are ill thought out, seeming to be just intent on saving money with no thought of safety. Replacing 8 engines with 4x4's shows how little knowledge he has on the requirements of a fire and rescue service. What exactly can a 4x4 carry?. This proposal is dangerous. NCC do not want a change, neither do the Fire Brigades and no one I have spoken to. He has shown that he has no idea of what the service requires and I feel he is doing it as an ego trip. In his present position of PCC he has been an abject failure, so why wreck the fire service as well
			He has left the police under staffed, closed down smaller police stations but still demands more money from our council tax.

30/08/2018 22:29:39	30/08/2018 22:32:54	Disagree	The fire service is a very specialist area with little commonality with the police. When the PCC has a well funded police force with adequate resources to do what the public wants them to do, he can come back with this proposal. Until then just get on with what he is paid to do!
30/08/2018 23:16:41	30/08/2018 23:17:51	Disagree	I think the fire service should stay where it is.

31/08/2018 06:54:21	31/08/2018 07:00:15	Disagree	I think the pcc has enough to do to manage the police. There are less frontline officers to do the job now and there are more and more pressures put upon them because of facebook, twitter and suchlike.

The more widespread responsibility becomes, the less knowledge of local issues is taken into account. Leave the expertise to those who are best placed to exercise it. If the benefits of having a PCC to oversee the governance of the Police were more obvious and well researched, perhaps there would be a case.
31/08/2018 08:09:38	31/08/2018 08:13:35	Disagree	This seems like empire building to me on the part of PCC , The Fire Service should remain under the control of our County Council. Perhaps we should look more closely at how the Police are managed.
31/08/2018 08:30:57	31/08/2018 08:32:25	Disagree	Fire governance is working well, leave it alone. The savings are not enough to change this. Too much power for one person - Mr Green!
31/08/2018 08:29:16	31/08/2018 08:32:35	Disagree	The Police and Fire and Rescue service are very different organizations and should not be used for empire building. 			The Fire Service is efficiently managed at the moment. I am amazed that the PCC (who is so busy) has time to manage yet another service. It is obvious that the PCC is a role that has to invent work to fulfill its purpose, whatever that is. The money spent on this superfluous role could be better spent on increasing police numbers

			Because there is very low turnout for the PCC election, therefore this is not giving any further control because people aren't actually fully engaging with the PCC system.

31/08/2018 11:38:56	31/08/2018 11:42:08	Disagree	The police and crime commissioner has no expertise in fire and rescue. The County Council has long experience of working with this service. I do not think the Police and Crime Commissioner has done well in his current role. He needs to concentrate on that.
31/08/2018 11:31:26	31/08/2018 11:49:43	Disagree	The Police and Crime Commissioner has enough to do, without adding to responsibilities and not adding to the manpower.

31/08/2018 11:48:48	31/08/2018 12:10:32	Disagree	I strongly believe that the Norfolk Fire and Rescue Service (NFRS) should stay with Norfolk County Council. I don't believe that the savings figures presented from the business case stack up (presented to the public in a style not dissimilar to the Brexit NHS savings figure massage), and there is certainly no support from Norfolk County Council itself to hand over the NFRS. Indeed, you cannot put an accurate figure on the unnecessary disruption that would be caused not only to the Council, but also to the NFRS, from a change of governance. The number of PCSOs being cut has been a great concern, and I would not wish to see the likes of this happening with either fire crews (fighters), nor supporting back office staff that help to keep the service running smoothly. I'm afraid that I see this as nothing more than a grab for the jewel in the crown of one of Norfolk County Council's most respected services!
31/08/2018 12:12:31	31/08/2018 12:15:41	Disagree	Undemocratic for 1 person to be in charge of a community work force.

			The PCC has no experience running a Fire & Rescue service and I do not see how he will be able to efficiently govern this service. I work within Norfolk Constabulary, and have not seen any improvements to Norfolk Constabulary since the introduction of the PCC. As the current PCC, his time should be spent governing and improving Norfolk Constabulary, not attempting to take over other services. The cost of this new proposal is also a waste on money in my opinion.

			There is a case to be made for a combined control room and for both services to be collocated. This already happens in several towns and villages. Ambulance could also be co-located in some places. The governance should remain separate.

31/08/2018 21:28:31	31/08/2018 21:39:31	Disagree	In my view there is little democratic accountability with the PCC - there is very low turnout for these elections and no viability of what they do. There seems to be no benefit to having the PCC. I feel they add bureaucracy where it is not needed and seem to have little qualification for their role. I see no reason to add the fire service to this role - it seems like an attempt to take more accountability for personal gain and to justify the role of PCC. I feel PCC should be scrapped.

Although they are both emergency services they both operate very different functions and the fire service should not be paired with law and order. The police and crime commissioner has supported many cuts to the police force front line and no doubt would wish to do the same to our already overstretched fire service which are doing a fantastic job.

01/09/2018 09:28:30	01/09/2018 09:47:04	Disagree	I believe local fire stations with fully operational appliances cannot be replaced by lighter 4x4s - in large scale emergencies the outlying, smaller stations, are called upon to support the larger full-time stations. And it is never possible to estimate how serious a fire may turn out to be, thus placing both properties and people at risk.

01/09/2018 10:28:44	01/09/2018 10:42:02	Disagree	There is little commonality between the two services operationally or culturally. A forced marriage driven by a dominant partner is a poor basis for true integration to release espoused efficiencies: efficiencies that are speculative and based on ideology/fable. The question should not be determined by the Police and Fire Commissioner who is in effect, 'marking his own homework'. Any determination should be via a wider constitutional body and based upon rigorous scrutiny and proper, due dilligence. It is unlikely that the PCC is any better placed to run the Fire Service than Social Services, Health, Environment and the Treasury. An assumption that it will work because it is another emergency service is superficial logic that fails to have any real cogency below the level of political appetite and ambition.
01/09/2018 10:30:19	01/09/2018 10:44:16	Disagree	I am afraid to say i DISAGREE about the way the Police has been running, so what good would that be if even more work load is putting on their plate? As far as i am concerned, just because Norfolk Police has been given the title of Outstanding i DON'T buy the idea of them being that good. FEW brilliant officers in a place full of incompetence and flaws does NOT equal Outstanding! the biggest problem being: the only Officers who make the rank are the BULLY boys ones, as far as i can see! Sounds more like preferential treatment, sexism, racism and corruption all embedded in one place. Sorry to be so blunt, however, if you are to move forward, you have to hear the TRUTH, sort out your laundry first, then it will be time to take on the Fire Services. I just wish there is no corruption involved on the final decision, the right outcome is achieved and the beginning of a new era on Norfolk Constabulary starts as soon as possible.

I would, therefore, disagree with this proposal which would seem to introduce unnecessary disruption to a well-run Service and a potential risk to public health & safety. I am aware that Norfolk Fire and Rescue Service works closely in the community with many other partners, a number of key ones being part of Norfolk County Council including Adult Social Care, Childrens' Services, Public Health and Trading Standards. I believe important partnership working of this kind would be more effective in the future if Norfolk Fire and Rescue Service were to remain within the County Council structure.

			Whilst I acknowledge the PCC has the right and duty to consider this matter. The PCCs cornerstone 'best case' saving is £1M a year for 10 years. This is against a total police/fire service budget in excess of £171M. The County Council contests this is optimistic/flawed and efficiencies would be even less. This means a saving of less than 0.7% is the best that is being proposed by this significant change. The PCC has also, in my opinion not outlined, which agency would be the major beneficiary of the savings. Given the police have an annual budget of apx £144M and the Fire Service of just £28M I have a real concern that there will be a major partner/junior partner relationship with the police with all their current pressures benefitting to the detriment of another vital emergency service. Also, by being part of the County Council the Fire Service has access to its overall annual budget (over its £28M allocated budget) and county reserves of apx. £50M if there were to be a major operational demand or resilience scale event. The PCC has not, in my opinion adequately explained how the removal of this fundamental 'safety net' and the risk generated would be mitigated. The County Council is also on record as safeguarding the annual Fire Service budget and committed to keeping Fire Stations open and there is clear evidence of the Fire Service working closely with the Police and ambulance service on operational, strategic and economic levels and the curve of this accelerating not stagnating or reducing. Factored in to the pace of this must also be the county council change to a responsible portfolio lead in May 2019 rather than 'committee' - meaning a strong likelihood of even greater control and efficiency than present. On a local level, the PCCs plan reduces the coverage out of Heacham to a 4x4 vehicle instead of a fully crewed tender - this is simply unacceptable and puts the public at risk. By way of recent example, We have had several forest fires this hot summer, serious accidents on the major A149 thoroughfare, flash flooding requiring the pumping out of people's homes (we are in a serious flood risk zone - with major resilience planning). None of these would be better served by a lesser equipped 4x4 and a reduced crew. Looking on Facebook locally it is clear the Fire Service is currently held in high regard and considered to be effective and this proposal is unpopular. For all of these reasons I strongly believe the 'strong business case' threshold required for such a change in terms of efficiency, effectiveness and improved service has not been met and I cannot support this due to the clear risk to the public. I honesty believe the PCC, with good intent, may have come in to early and used legislation designed to protect and improve failing under resourced services upon a service which is held nationally and locally in high regard.

			The public are not interested in PCCs this is obvious from the lack of turnout in the elections this results in inexperienced candidates being elected by a very small section of the electorate. The police force in Norfolk has been dangerously depleted whilst PCCs have been in place and resulted in along with other anti-social behaviour more drug crime in Norwich. So from that track record dont allow this proposal to happen to our fire service.

		Section 4 of the formal NCC response outlines the reasons why NCC feel they should continue to run the Fire Service. There is nothing in the report from NCC to suggest why NCC should continue to run the Fire Service and much to suggest that they should not. 1) Norfolk has an efficient, effective and economically viable Fire and Rescue Service This is true; however this is because of the staff at the Fire and Rescue Service who deliver the great Service to the people of Norfolk and the staff and systems would transfer. This is not because NCC run the Fire Service. 2) We have a strong and productive track record of working together with Norfolk Police (including a shared HQ, joint fire stations, co-located teams and sharing resources) – and plans to do more. This is true; this is not because NCC run the Fire Service. 3) Efficiencies are always possible and this is part of our approach to everything we do. 4) As part of the County Council, Fire and Rescue budgets have been protected from the full impact of budget pressures. Front-line services continue to be modernised and compare well with others. Both true; another way of wording this is that the Fire and Rescue budget has seen significant cuts and are now one of lowest funded Services in the country and will likely see further cuts unless governance changes. Back Office staff have been depleted over the past few years. 5) We operate from 42 fire stations. Our risk assessments, and the public, tell us these are much needed and valued. We will continue to protect these. Not really a reason for NCC to continue to run the Fire Service. The stations are not based where they are on risk assessment and have been in the same locations for many years, other than maybe one or two that have been built in recent years. 6) We have made - and will continue to make - significant investment in the service to ensure it has the modern equipment and facilities it needs to operate effectively. We are purchasing 20 new fire engines, 800 new protective uniforms and more specialist equipment. We have joint procurement arrangements with other fire and rescue services. Great; once again not a reason for NCC to continue to run the Fire Service. Two of the dual pump stations in Norfolk have been running with one pump for a period of time as there are not sufficient spare fire engines. 7) The service is held to account at a community level by 84 representatives on the County Council, elected by Norfolk people, in meetings held in public. It is; but there is such a wide remit and councillors have their own agendas including ensuring they get voted in again. Not a reason for NCC to continue to run the Fire Service. 8) The Fire and Rescue service already has control of its budget and operations. The budget provided to the Fire and Rescue service is used only for Fire and Rescue. True; However with further cuts on the horizon at the Council the Fire Service is likely to see the budget it has control of reduced further still as it has been in the past few years. Not a reason for NCC to continue to run the Service. 9) The Fire and Rescue service, as an integrated part of the County Council, contributes to a broad range of services through shared agendas and outcomes, including Public Health, Adult Social Care and Trading Standards in particular. True; the Fire Service can continue to do this no matter who is running the Service. Not a reason for NCC to continue to run the Service.

			The service should be run by elected representatives not by a quango of the PCC cronies. It's a bit troubling that the PCC feels that he hasn't got enough to deal with already. The remit for each service is completely different, yes, both have public safety at there core but the Police are concerned with crime prevention and detection and the Fire Service are concerned with the preservation of life and property.

This small box shows you have no interest in the public's views, this is nothing more than a political tick box exercise by someone in a political position.

Clearly you have already made the decision to bow down to the government and do what they want, not what's best for the Fire Service, and certainly not what's best for the people of Norfolk. You should be standing up to the government on behalf of Norfolk not assisting them with this power grab, helping pave the way to privatisation, and bowing down to them for a knighthood like your fellow Conservative Henry Bellingham. Politics should not be running county police forces and it certainly shouldn't be involved in the Fire and Rescue Service.

It is shocking arrogance to think you can do as well or better than NCC, particularly as you are yet to show the people of Norfolk any worth or value as a PCC, you certainly don't hold CC Bailey to account, crime in Norfolk is rising year on year and getting swept under the carpet. The police remain another top heavy organisation with over half as many staff than police officers, and you raise our council taxes to fund the inefficiencies. If you have enough time on your hands to do another job then use it to put your own house in order first before messing up an effective and well run organisation and putting lives and property at risk.

Firefighters have the well-earned trust and utmost respect from the public, something neither the PCC nor Norfolk Police have, or are even close to achieving. The fire and rescue service is a humanitarian organisation, they play a neutral role in our communities and must remain separate from law enforcement.

You have shamelessly wasted taxpayers' money on this whole thing and a lot of people's valuable time. £10m over 10 years is only £1m a year and there is not a shred of evidence to support those fanciful claims. Anyone can produce a business case massaged to the outcome they want, you only have to watch Dragon's Den to see how fanciful and over-optimistic they can be. Yours, however, is downright dangerous. What your exercise shows is that you are putting the management of money before the management of risk and that is really, really worrying for public safety and the safety of firefighters themselves. We can wait an extra 5 or 10 minutes for the police to arrive, on the rare occasions that they actually turn up nowadays, but any extra time in the case of a fire kills people, and wipes out their entire lives and possessions.

The management of money must not come before the management of risk.

Please Mr Green, drop the arrogance and do the right thing. Put the people of Norfolk first, uphold the views of Norfolk Fire and Rescue Service and Norfolk County Council, and start building some trust and respect for yourself and Norfolk Police.

03/09/2018 11:21:08	03/09/2018 11:23:31	Disagree	This is clearly a power grab. There is nothing wrong with the fire service presently and Mr Green is looking solely to say he has done this. I know nobody that thinks this is a good idea. I would reconsider my opinion after he has sorted his dwindling police force and reinstated some firm confidence in its officers.

			Based on the counter argument given by NCC and their answers to the business case proposals by the PCC as stipulated in their produced document, I do not support the take over of the fire service by the PCC. As a serving Wholetime Firefighter in Norfolk, I cannot wholeheartedly trust the motives behind the takeover having listened to Mr Lorne in person. Unfortunately you cannot claim a saving of £10,000,000 if that money is not given back to the council tax payers. The savings, as I see them, cannot be justified as to where they will be given. If they are taken from one department to give to another, then you are 'robbing Peter to pay Paul', that isn't a saving, it is a redistribution of budget. I have thoroughly read the business case and for the reason mentioned above, I do not support the take over. I believe things aren't perfect now, but the solution offered is less than that currently proposed by the PCC.

			It would be good in every way if through the magazine of each area it becomes possible to spell out in a little more detail, perhaps with examples, what proposed change may enable to happen that cannot or does not currently do.

			The fire service is vital to the safety of life and property in our community, and is an important element in its culture. All major changes to organisations have associated risks. The recent decision to change the IT system at TSB and the subsequent resignation of its Chief Executive provides a good illustration of this. At this time, when the country is facing major upheavals in many fields due to Brexit, and when the population's views are so sharply divided, the risks associated with the proposed change to the service surely far outweigh any potential benefits. This matter should be shelved, and possibly reconsidered after a period of five to ten years. Thank you for reading this.

			By abandoning distinct roles of power and adding the responsibility to a single position is not an efficient way to deal with lack of funding. We need individual roles to provide beneficial support to communities in and around Norwich. The lack of awareness from the Conservative government (through their relentless austerity measures) unto the safety of its citizens is appalling to say the least.

			It is a power grab to take the fire services into party political hands. Besides which, the idea that the commissioner has suddenly decided he has time for a whole extra emergency service is laughable in the naivety it assumes of the public.

			Having read both the Norfolk County Council's report and the PCC's Business Case, I do not feel that a 'Case for Change' has been adequately made. The Norfolk Fire and Rescue Service appears to be an extremely well run service which has responded to the need to work within a reduced budget without risking public safety. It is constantly monitoring and modernising its procedures and has been expanding its collaborative work with other emergency services over the course of a number of years. I see no need to take the governance of Norfolk's Fire and Rescue Service away from the local authority and I take note that Norfolk County Council, Norfolk Fire and Rescue Service and the Fire Brigades Union have all rejected the PCC's Business Case.

Most of these ideas give 1 individual too much power and also dilute appropriate focus.
04/09/2018 11:36:53	04/09/2018 11:39:53	Disagree	The fire service is a humanitarian service, not a business and needs a specialist officer with knowledge and experience of the service running it. There should be no cuts to this vital service.

For greater transparency and democratic accountability, the Fire & Rescue Service should remain in control of the council. There will be significant costs incurred in the proposed change which, from experience of other such changes in governance, is likely to cost more than is envisaged.

			Formal response by Easton Parish Council to the proposed PCC consultation document to combine the Police and Fire Services for Norfolk, "A Case for Change". At its parish meeting of 3 September 2018, Easton Parish Council unanimously agreed to support Norfolk County Council in opposing the transfer of Fire Services to the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner in Norfolk. The Council believes this proposal would provide a poorer service to its parishioners. From a service perspective the current synergies of the fire service working with a large number of other public services at county council level would be lost. Attempts to draw comparisons with collaborative activities being planned for a county in the mess that Northamptonshire has created for itself, is puzzling. From a financial perspective, the Easton Parish Council finds that the case outlined within the document "Norfolk Fire & Rescue Service – keep in safe hands", and which challenges the forecast savings made by the PCC, a compelling argument. However we would go further and ask the following questions of the PCC. How is it that detailed costings have not been presented that factor in the additional resources needed to take on the difficult task of implementing a collaboration plan? To understand this, the PCC has only to look at the resources needed for the lengthy collaboration work undertaken between the Norfolk and Suffolk Constabularies, to attempt to the services together to make savings. Figures should hopefully readily available going back as far as 2008/9 to provide guidance in this respect. Secondly, what on-going additional resources would be needed by the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner to be able to manage both police and fire services? If the extra workload can be readily absorbed, then this might suggest that savings could be found by looking closer to home for the PCC, than seeking to make them outside of the organisation. And in which case there is an opportunity cost of internal savings which should have been identified within the business case as part of its option appraisal. Easton Parish Council 4th September 2018

04/09/2018 17:42:27	04/09/2018 17:54:09	Disagree	We disagree with the above proposal. We believe that Option 1 is the right choice. We consider that Heacham Fire Station should continue to operate as at present. With the recent increase in Heacham's population and the increasing traffic congestion, we think a full fire station should be available in the village, run as at present.

			<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The PCC has not done a good job overseeing Norfolk police so why should we believe that he would do any good overseeing the fire service? 2. The savings figures are highly suspect, as they include savings that would have occurred had he not taken over the fire service. 3. It is possible for the police and fire services to co-operate better without all answering to one man. 4. If the cuts he introduces to the fire service are anything like those he introduced to the police, there will be fires that are not attended to, just as there are now crimes that the police are unable to respond to.

04/09/2018 21:25:49	04/09/2018 21:35:27	Disagree	I spent 31 years as a Senior Fire Service Officer up until my retirement, the Fire Service is an organisation which requires single management of its resources, I have seen in the past where the service has been managed only to see some of its financial reserves taken away and given to the Police Service, this has led to funding cuts later on in the Fire Service which becomes detrimental to front line services. A Police and Crime Commissioner should concentrate and focus on crime reduction and allow the Fire Authority to manage the Fire Service.
04/09/2018 21:26:00	04/09/2018 21:42:18	Disagree	There is no evidence for a change of this kind. The PCC has already expressed his intent to make damaging changes to the fire service such as sending inadequate, smaller appliances as first response vehicles. He has not given any assurance that he would not seek to bleed money from the fire service which has already been hard hit by government cuts.
04/09/2018 22:06:03	04/09/2018 22:07:36	Disagree	It is just a cynical way to bring in cuts
04/09/2018 21:41:33	04/09/2018 22:08:05	Disagree	Concentration of power in this way may appear to be a method of increasing efficiency but seems to me to be a step away from representative democracy. The move would highly likely bring the fire service into line for budget cuts. While I highly disapprove of any cuts to frontline services at least the Communities board can spread these cuts among less vital services. Also the claim made by the PCC case that the Collaboration Board do not meet has been disputed.

			The current provision of Police Service is not adequate for many communities - in particular concerns over basic enforcement that directly effect a community - such as speeding - which is largely ignored due to lack of resources - THIS METHOD OF GOVERNANCE CANNOT BE APPLICABLE TO OUR FIRE AND RESCUE SERVICE The proposal to reduce the capacity of Hingham Fire Station is of great concern to residents - including those fire fighters stationed there. Set in a largely agricultural area, should the hot dry summers continue - fire risk will increase - and the town needs to retain it's capacity for dealing with such incidents. Why not provide the smaller vehicle in addition to the current appliances to cover all bases!!! - collaborative working is essential, and the current arrangements seems to provide police and fire rescue services that do just that!!! -

			It is reported that NCC has expressed doubts at the savings that have been accounted by the PCC are overestimated . This does not recommend that the funding for Fire services should be moved to a speculative accounting organisation.

05/09/2018 11:42:31	05/09/2018 11:50:46	Disagree	It's been suggested that the savings to be produced by this proposal have been significantly overstated, and there has already been an indication of cuts that will be made to the Fire Service. The anticipated improvements to both services seem vague and subjective. If there is already a legal obligation for the emergency services to collaborate this, in my view, is sufficient.

While the document in its current draft is very poor, and a partial refund should be sought from the consultants due to the number of errors in it, there are some very important facts that need considering

- 1 - under NCC, NFRS have had to reduce the number of spare fire engines we have. This combined with the merger of NFRS workshops with Highways workshops has caused a massive maintenance backlog, and insufficient spares. To get around this, the 2nd Fire Engines from Cromer and Sandringham Fire Stations HAVE BEEN REMOVED WITH NO PUBLIC CONSULTATION and those 2 stations have been single pump stations for around a year. The current IRMP does have those pumps as slated to be removed and replaced with smaller 4x4 vehicles, but as they haven't been purchased yet, those locations have half the cover they used to have
- 2 - the head of the communities committee, Margaret Dewsbury, on a visit to NFRS actually said she didn't even know that she would be responsible for NFRS when she got elected to chair the communities committee. This is how important we are in the NCC context
- 3 - Margaret Dewsbury also stated that she no longer trusts Lorne Green, and asked for any "Dirt they can use to fight this proposal"
- 4 - under NCC, the NFRS budget has been reduced significantly, bringing support services to its knees. around 30% of the support staff have been got rid of, often with more expensive uniformed staff taking their place (such as a group manager for audit, or a station manager in H&S, or a group manager to run fleet) as those are "Operational" people and are protected from cuts as NCC do not wish to be seen as cutting the front line (yet see point 1 on that front)
- 5 - NCC have underfunded NFRS for decades. By most measures NFRS is the 2nd worst funded FRS in the country, and a previous chief fire officer stated around 4 years ago that to bring NFRS up to the AVERAGE level of funding, we would need a budget increase of £5 million
- 6 - we are very small and unimportant to NCC. under the last NCC management restructure the CFO was removed from the top table of directors and made an assistant director under Communities. The Director of that department Tom McAbe has zero interest in NFRS, he has never shown his face here, or had any active involvement or management. Our board got reviewed by external consultants less than 2 years ago and allegedly got labelled "the worst they had ever seen" by the management consultants, and Tom McAbe got blasted for his lack of accessibility. However this is mostly hear say as the document has not been released to the public, this information has come from various board members discussing it with people. Little or no improvement has been made since, and a dedicated individual like Lorne may be just the thing needed to sort things out
- 7 - The PCC appears to have more ability to protect the budget of NFRS. NCC are already asking for more savings from us, although Margaret Dewsbury did say they will try and protect our budget as they recognise we can't make further cuts, but in reality I can't imagine they wont try and make more damaging cuts. NFRS is already hamstrung by the damage they have done with inappropriate cuts and struggles to deliver any changes which could actually deliver savings as we are under resourced
- 8 - The PCC should be able to have a more direct input and oversight of NFRS, rather than it being "invisible" as part of Communities at NCC, with only publicly visible problems getting to the Communities committee, he would be able to have more regular meetings with the CFO, and even sit on the board to get a deeper understanding of what is going on, what challenges we are facing and how we can improve
- 9 - the simple fact is, we need to change in a positive manner, and NCC has hamstrung us for so long we just need to not be part of NCC. NCC is unable to deliver change, as they are big part of the problem. they are a large burocratic monstrosity that causes problems and delays at all levels they get involved because they are as crippled by budget cuts as we are, compounded by their own buerocracy getting in the way

			The business case just does not stack up. I cannot see that the change in governance - which is what the consultation is actually about - would make any difference. There is no evidence to show it would make any difference. Of course everyone can work better together, but there is no evidence that a change in governance will make that happen. Collaboration with the Ambulance service seems to be more important.

			North Norfolk District Council at its Cabinet meeting of 3 September resolved:
			1. That Cabinet responds to the consultation advising that North Norfolk District Council does not support the proposals for change as the benefits of the proposal are not clearly demonstrated in terms of positive outcomes to local Council Tax payers.
			A copy of the Council's Cabinet report will be sent under separate cover by email to the Police & Crime Commissioner's office.

			The Fire Service is not an enforcement agency and the PCC has no expertise in this area. I am concerned that the Fire Service budget will not be protected under this new arrangement.
			Shifting accountability from a council committee to one individual is a step backwards for democracy and this proposal has zero support from local politicians on all sides!
			This is clearly a personal power grab project by Lorne Green that will waste public money and disadvantage the public. It must be stopped!
